GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,

OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,

MONTGOMERY, November 14, 1894.

Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

You meet in the seventy-fifth year of our Statehood to exercise the legislative power of a free people. Your great trust brings its own admonitions of the courage and wisdom which it demands and the consequences for good or ill which wait upon your deliberations.

In discharge of constitutional duty I now give you "information of the state of the government," with such recommendations, as it seems to me, may be useful in the discharge of your duties. Your first task will be to devise means for the support of the government during the present and the next fiscal year, and to provide in addition for a deficit in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year, ending September 30th, 1894, amounting to $364,353.65.

Before dealing with the remedy, it seems best to inquire how and why this deficiency came about; since it will the better enable you to avoid the errors of the past and to provide more wisely for the future.

THE CAUSE OF THE DEFICIT.

This deficiency is the result of the experiment begun at the session of 1888-9, of reducing the tax rate until it reached four mills, and at the same time increasing appropriations; and it will be easily seen by a brief review of the rate of taxation and the condition of the treasury when the experiment began, how inevitable was the outcome. The balance remaining in the treasury available for general purposes, after excluding special funds, at the end of the fiscal year in 1888, when the tax rate was five mills, was $317,415 91; in 1889, when the rate was reduced a half of a mill, $272,388; in 1890 this balance was $218,552.89; while at the close of the fiscal year 1890-91, when the four mill rate took effect for the first time, this balance had shrunk to $37,884.87, and at the close of the fiscal year 1891-92, the second year in which the present rate had been in force, the balance had entirely disappeared, and each year thereafter came a deficit.

The decrease in the tax rate from seven and a half mills in 1876 to four mills in 1890 was the result of a successive reductions for fourteen years, nearly one-half of which were effected during the last four years of that period. The reduction made by the act of Feb'y 26th, 1889, was induced by oversanguine expectations of continued increase in taxable values and an ardent desire for a present gain which did not take proper thought for the needs of the future. Under this same impulse not only was the rate decreased, but the appropriation for schools alone was augmented one hundred thousand dollars per annum at the same time. The effect of this legislation could not be accurately known until the close of the fiscal year 1890-1, during which period the taxes assessed in 1890 under the four mill rate would reach the treasury.

At the threshold of my duties the matter gave me concern; for it was certain the surplus, resulting from higher taxation in former years, would soon be exhausted, and that the four mill rate would not yield sufficient revenue for the future, unless there should be a much larger increase of the taxable values than it seemed reasonable to hope under existing conditions. The matter was accordingly brought to the attention of the General Assembly, by special message, on the 24th day of January, 1891. In this message a pending bill to further reduce the rate of taxation was opposed, and dissenting from the estimates of the then Auditor, I estimated that under the four mill rate there would be a balance of $38,542, at the close of the fiscal year 1890-1, and a small deficit at the close of the fiscal year 1891-92. The General Assembly, however, clinging to the belief that values would increase, took no action looking to a change of the rates. My estimates proved quite accurate; for the balance Sept. 30th, 1891, was $37,358.17, while there was a deficit of $14,987.59 on the 30th of Sept., 1892. It became manifest that there would be large deficits each succeeding year unless values increased or the rate was changed.

Such was the outlook when the General Assembly convened on the 15th November, 1892, shortly after the Presidential election, which dispelled the doubts and fears concerning Federal policies of finance, taxation and interference with the States, which for some time past had added to business uncertainty, clogged enterprise and checked credit and investment. There was a general belief that the country was on the eve of a great business revival and prosperity, and a conviction that taxable values would increase largely in the future.

RECOMMENDATIONS IN BIENNIAL MESSAGE.

While sharing to some extent these hopes of returning prosperity it did not escape me, in making recommendations in the biennial message which dealt at length with our financial condition, that contingencies, which the future alone could determine, might decrease rather than increase values, and this view was presented for the consideration of the Legislature, in the statement that "a lowering of values will be the inevitable effect of continued low prices for our chief products, and it is certain that values cannot be maintained if the State be visited by a financial panic or ravaged by pestilence." It was also stated that, "under our present assessment of taxable values and present revenue laws there will be a deficit in the treasury of about $216,725 on Sept. 30th, 1893, and another deficit for about an equal amount on Sept. 30, 1894. - These estimates do not include any special appropriations, and are, of course, contingent upon legislative action at this session."

A large majority of that General Assembly, while resolved to increase the rate to the extent necessary to preserve the public faith and secure the continuance of good government, shared the prevalent feeling that values would increase and not diminish and believed it would be unwise to determine the rate of increase upon the basis of existing values, and if this were done that it would result in a surplus of revenue. As the best practicable mode to accommodate the conflicting opinions on the subject, I recommended that the rate be fixed at five mills for the calendar years 1893 and 94, with provision that the Governor might remit or suspend the collection of such part of the tax as might not be needed. The Legislature adopted this suggestion and fixed the rate at five mills for the calendar years 1893-94. The effect of this increase, however, could not be felt in the treasury until the fiscal year 1893-4; for the taxes assessed for the year 1893 are neither due nor collected until some months after the end of the fiscal year which closes Sept 30th, 1893; and whatever the deficit at that time must of course be carried forward and met out of the next fiscal year's revenue.

The Auditor's report shows that on the 30th Sept. 1893, if all warrants drawn up to that time had been paid, there would have been a cash balance in the treasury of $77,023.

30. He also mentions the following amounts as set apart for special purposes:

For convict system	$ 44,715 55
Soldiers and widows	124,485 12
Two and three per cent. fund.....	641 86
Agricultural Department.....	57,790 18
College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts	18,952 50
Redemption of six per cent. bond unpaid	1,500 00—$ 248,085 21

At that time there was also due $163,595.30 on the apportionment for public schools, whose last quarter ended at the same time as the fiscal year. Adding that amount to the sums set apart for special purposes, and subtracting $77,023 30, the cash in the treasury, there was a deficit of $334,657.21 at the close of the fiscal year 1892-3, which exceeded the estimate $127,932.21. The estimate, however, as we have seen, did not include special appropriations. The General Assembly, at the session of 1892-3, made special appropriations, including that for the convict system, and an increase to agricultural schools, amounting to $48,768.68, payable during that fiscal year. The estimated receipts for the same period fell short $42,733.39, because taxes to that amount, due on railroads in the hands of receivers, could not be collected during the fiscal year. Had there been no special appropriations, and the taxes had been collected as reasonably anticipated, the estimate made Nov. 15th, 1892, would have been within $36,433.14 of the deficit on Sept. 30th, 1893.

The year ending at that date was the last fiscal period during which the four mill rate was in force; the receipts thereafter being under the five mill rate.

The deficit on Sept. 30th, 1893, however, though apparently $334,657.21, may be treated as considerably less for all practical purposes. In the sums which go to make up that deficit are included $57,790.18 set apart for the Agricultural department. As stated in a veto message to the House on the 21st of February, 1893:

The act creating the department of agriculture provided that the money paid in by it should be kept on a separate account "as a fund for the exclusive use and benefit of the department of agriculture," but when the Code of 1886 was adopted this provision was omitted, and in lieu of it, section 148 provided that the money paid in by the commissioner "must be by the auditor and treasurer entered on the books of their respective offices to the credit of the department of agriculture." The original section not being carried into the Code, of course, is not now the law, and section 148 is the only provision on the subject. The expenses of the department, since its creation, have not by any means equalled the amount paid by it into the treasury during that period, and there stands on the books, "to the credit of the department," quite a large sum of money. Since there is no provision forbidding the State from borrowing or using this money, the practice has long been to use it in the fiscal operations of the State as any other money in the treasury. There is a surplus to the credit of the department, but the State has already used that surplus and is a debtor to the department for it. No time is fixed for its payment. It does not bear interest. The department can not use it unless appropriations are made out for it. It is not a debt in the sense requiring provision to be made for it.

The real deficit, therefore at the close of the fiscal year, Sept. 30th, 1893, was $271,867.03.

ARRANGEMENTS TO PROTECT OUR CREDIT.

Comparatively little revenue reaches the treasury after the close of the fiscal year, September 30th, until the middle of January, and unless there is quite a large surplus at the end of the fiscal year, the treasury must look to other sources to meet the large demands maturing during that period. Hence, it was necessary, in the condition of the treasury in the month of September, 1893, to make provision, not only for demands falling due at the close of that month, but also to meet other payments falling due from that time until the middle of January. The constitution forbids the borrowing of more than one hundred thousand dollars, and that sum was insufficient to meet our wants. It was therefore necessary to provide for the prompt payment of the State's current obligations in other ways.

On the 28th of September, 1893, I effected in New York a temporary loan of one hundred thousand dollars from the New York and Security Trust Company, and also arranged with it to take a transfer of warrants drawn on appropriations already made for current expenses, to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars more, that company paying the cash therefor, through the State treasurer, as its agent to the holder, who transferred the warrants to the company, which took and held them as security until the warrants should be cashed at the treasury. I also arranged with the same company to cash at par our interest coupons due the following January, and hold them also until the treasury was in condition to meet them. For the amount loaned and that used in purchasing the warrants and coupons, the Trust Company was paid at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, from the time the money was paid out until the warrants and coupons were cashed. Two other temporary loans of $50,000 each maturing in 30 days, were made with home banks in March, 1894, and promptly paid at maturity. This was done under authority of subdivision 31 of the general appropriation act which had been framed, at my suggestion, with a view to the necessity of such an arrangement.

That the State was able to make this provision at all is a high tribute to its financial standing, for it could not offer any security except its simple note and the assurance that such warrants and coupons as were purchased at par would be promptly met as soon as the taxes were paid, and the arrangement was effected during the height of the great financial panic last year. It would have been impossible, but for the confidence inspired by the action of the last General Assembly in raising the tax rate, to induce capitalists to furnish the needed funds at such a time. But for some groundless assaults upon the legality of the transaction, it would be needless to remark that the constitution was obeyed to the letter; that the State borrowed nothing of the Trust Company beyond the sum allowed by the constitution, and when that company purchased and took a transfer of warrants and took up coupons, payable out of existing appropriations for current expenses, it merely stood in the shoes of the original holders of the warrants and coupons, and the transaction could not therefore involve any increase of the State's indebtedness in the constitutional or ordinary acceptation, any more than the drawing of the warrants and paying them to the original holders would constitute an increase of the State's debt, or otherwise violate the law. By this arrangement numerous needy holders of small warrants, including teachers, maimed soldiers and widows of soldiers, were saved from a ruinous discount on their warrants, and the State was spared the loss of credit and other injury which would have resulted from not promptly meeting its current expenses, and allowing its warrants to be hawked upon the market. The State promptly reimbursed the Trust company at the stipulated dates; but the payments in discharge of obligations maturing Sept. 30, 1893, were necessarily made out of the revenue for the fiscal year 1893-4, and to that extent swelled the deficit at the close of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 1894.

DEFICIT SEPTEMBER 30TH, 1894.

On the 30th September, 1894, the close of the fiscal year 1893-4, there was cash in the treasury $45,625.00, which would have been reduced to $19,816.76, if all outstanding warrants had been paid. At the same time the following amounts were due special funds:

Convict system.....	$ 3,174 94
Soldiers and widows.....	123,569 59
Two and three per cent. fund	183 94
Agricultural department.....	45,037 29
Morrill fund.....	15,450 00
School fund ..	97,263 65
Total	$284,670 41

There was also due the $12,000 for salaries for the month of September, and $29,000 for the Insane Hospital for the last quarter of the fiscal year. As that year ended on Sunday these amounts were drawn out and paid during the next (or present) fiscal year, but they properly form a part of the expenditures for the last fiscal year. Claims estimated at $55,000, owing to a deficiency in the appropriation for feeding and removing prisoners during the last two fiscal years, and also quarterly allowances for military companies estimated at $3,500, were also due at that time. There were also outstanding warrants for costs in criminal cases, payment of which was withheld because they were payable only out of the convict fund which was not sufficient for that purpose and the maintenance at the same time of the convict system, and there were a few other warrants which had not been presented, the whole of the unpaid warrants amounting to $23,808.24.

In determining the real condition of the treasury on September 30th, 1894, all these amounts, which were then due, must necessarily be taken into consideration. Warrants had not been drawn at the close of the fiscal year for all of the school fund apportioned for that period, and the whole amount unpaid was not technically due on September 30th.

The amount not used in anyone year however is carried forward and available for the next school year. The whole unpaid balance to the credit of the school fund is therefore, considered part of the deficit. If we deduct from the aggregate of these demands the cash in the treasury at that time, we have a deficiency at the close of the fiscal year 1893-4 of $364,353.65. Included in that deficit is the sum of $45,037.29, standing to the credit of the Agricultural Department. For reasons stated, in a former part of this message, provision need not be made for this sum; and the amount of our deficit may, therefore, be taken for practical purposes, as only $319,317.36, unless special appropriations are made out of the Department funds at this session.

Provision was made to handle the deficit at the close of the fiscal year September 30th, 1894, in the same way as the previous year. I effected a temporary loan of one hundred thousand dollars from the New York Security and Trust Company, and induced it to take a transfer of warrants at par to the amount of about $215,000, if necessary, and also to take up our January coupons, holding the warrants and coupons until the revenues of this fiscal year would enable the State to pay them and the loan, and paying this company at the rate of six per cent. for the money loaned and used in taking up warrants and coupons. If the loans could have been made for a longer time, or bonds of the State, having a long time to run, could have been issued and sold, the rate would have been less, but with the security and the time of the loan, I was unable to obtain more favorable terms as to the interest.

CONDITION OF TREASURY IN 1895 AND 1896 UNDER PRESENT LAWS AND VALUATIONS

The Auditor, on the basis of present laws and valuations estimates the receipts for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1895, at $1,746,500. He estimates the disbursements for the same period at $1,986,320. This would make a difference between the receipts and disbursements for that year of $239,820, but among the sums included in the disbursements for the fiscal year 1894-5, and which will in fact be disbursed during that year the estimated deficiency for feeding and removing prisoners, amounting to $55,000, at the close of the fiscal year September 30, 1894. As this item was included in the amounts due for the fiscal year 1893-4 and goes to make up the deficiency stated at its close, it cannot be estimated in determining the deficit for the year 1894-5, although in fact disbursed in that year. The deficiency on September 30, 1895, will therefore, be $184,820. This will be the condition of the treasury after disbursing $120,000 for soldiers and widows, which item is placed in the payments of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1895, though in fact it is paid in the next fiscal year. It is proper, however, so to place it to show the condition of the treasury, at the close of the fiscal year 1894-95; for it is a special fund which ought not to be trenched on for general purposes; and if there is not enough money in the treasury to meet it at the close of the fiscal year, it constitutes to that extent a deficiency for that fiscal year, though in point of fact payable in the next. The same observations apply as to this item in estimating the deficiency on September 30, 1896.

The Auditor estimates, on the same basis of values and revenue laws, that the receipts for the fiscal year 1895-6 will be $1,746,500, and that the disbursements for that period will be the same as the prior year, with the exception of fifty thousand dollars for the expenses of the General Assembly and $55,000 deficiencies for feeding and removing prisoners, both of which should therefore, be deducted from the estimates as to the fiscal year 1895-6. Excluding these two items from the estimates for that year, we will have expenditures for the fiscal year 1895-6 of $1,881,320, and receipts for same period $1,746,500, leaving a deficit at the end of the fiscal year 1895-6 of $134,820, for that year alone and without reference to deficits of prior years. In other words, the treasury, on the 30th of September, 1896, under our present revenue laws, will be burdened with demands from deficits;

That of September 30, 1894, amounting to	$364,353	65
That of September 30, 1895, amounting to.....	184,820	00
“ “ “ 1896, “ “.....	134,820	00

Total deficits.....	$683,993	65
---------------------	-----------	----

The Auditor's estimates make allowance for shrinkage in receipts of $85,000 on accounts of the falling off of $17,000,000 in the assessment for the year 1894, as compared with the prior year; but he estimates the income from licenses the same as last year. There has been during the past four years a constant decrease in the receipts from licenses; the loss in the last fiscal year, as compared with the year before, amounting to nearly 20 per cent, and the average yearly decrease in the past four years being nearly ten per cent. Business conditions and the low price of our products will assuredly cause some decrease in taxable values during the next two years, and the probability is that the receipts from licenses will continue to fall off. It will be unwise to legislate on any expectations of increased valuations, or to ignore the strong probabilities of a decrease.

To the extent that the demands upon the Treasury cannot be lessened by proper economy it will devolve upon you to furnish further revenues to meet the needs of the Government. I, therefore, first discuss the main matters in which retrenchment is possible, omitting minor economies which will occur to you, before considering the additional taxation which our situation demands.

BETTER MODES OF ASSESSMENT.

It will not be denied that the value of property which is assessed and that which escapes taxation, is at least twice as great as the values shown by our assessments. If all this property could be fairly assessed, the present rate of taxation would more than suffice for our wants; but it seems idle to expect this, or any near approach to it, in the light of the repeated failures of legislative efforts, during the past seventy-five years, to cure the admitted evils of escapes from taxation, and unfair and discriminative values. It is certain that just equalization of the burdens of taxation cannot be effected, without a radical departure from old methods one of the most important of which is to change the mode of selecting tax assessors.

APPOINTMENT OF ASSESSORS.

If a tax assessor is intelligent, industrious and courageous, the taxes in his county will generally be justly assessed. On the other hand, if he be lacking in any of these qualities, or subordinates them to a desire to please the people, in order to retain office, the taxes in his county will be inefficiently and generally, unfairly assessed. The assessor, in short, is the system, and the assessment of values in a county depends too largely upon the characteristics of the individual assessor, no matter what the merits of the tax law. Differences with the tax payer as to valuations are often resented as covert impeachments of honesty, and the raising of value as returned under oath as little less than personal affronts. The assessor and tax payer are practically the only parties to differences between them; and if the assessor is conscientious he must adhere to his values and decide against the citizen. It requires a strong man not to yield something to avoid the enmity of large numbers of the people among he lives; and if to the disinclination to make enemies is added the desire to make friends to retain office, self-interest will often overbalance the proper discharge of duty, and the public suffers.

Is it to be wondered at that many assessors feel too keenly their dependency upon the tax payers and seek to avoid their disfavor by small and often partial assessments?

It is no argument against appointing them, that judicial officers, sheriffs, magistrates and constables, who are elected by the people, perform their duties just as efficiently as officers appointed to such positions. There are always two sides to litigation, which must result in favor of one as well as against the other, and the greater part of those who elect the judge are never interested in the controversies which come before him. Sheriffs have no functions which bring them in unpleasant contact with a majority of their constituents; and the same is true of magistrates, constables and clerks of courts. The tax assessor alone, of all the officers elected by the people, inevitably comes in sharp contact with all whose favor is essential to his re-election; and if he discharges his duties well he is sure to be regarded by many as a prosecutor to impose burdens, rather than an officer to ascertain values. The revenue is of the life of the State; and the man who has such important relations to it, should be lifted as far as possible above all temptation to shirk the performance of duty. In other important officers Constitutional provisions guard against these influences; notably in the case of judges and sheriffs. The reasons which require these safeguards for those officers, apply with equal force to tax assessors.

It may be urged that the power vested in the Executive to suspend assessors is an adequate remedy to prevent the evils of partiality and under valuations; but reflection will show that this is not so. With the thousands of assessments of different classes of property, scattered over 52,000 square miles; in sixty-six counties, how is the executive to obtain timely knowledge to justify him in charging assessors with dereliction of duty? What time has the executive, if he pays any attention to his other duties, to hear and decide upon numberless cases of under valuations or escapes, if he should undertake close investigation of assessments in each county? If he should only on the general result of the assessment in counties, his way is not at all clear. The executive may be satisfied that the general result of the assessment in a particular county, proves inefficiency and justifies suspension; but what conscientious man would act upon that view, when the local tribunal, to which the law confides jurisdiction to pass upon assessments, decides that they are fair and declines to disturb them? The remedy is practically valueless in effecting the main objects for which it was intended.

STATE BOARD OF ASSESSMENT.

The jurisdiction of boards of revenue and commissioners courts is confined to their own counties. In the nature of things these numerous boards cannot be of one mind as to the valuations of property, or as to the most feasible modes of correcting the evils of under valuations and unjust taxation. For these reasons, if for no other, these boards are powerless to bring about equal and just assessments throughout the State. Besides most of them are dependent upon a local constituency for their election, and they naturally regard themselves rather as guardians of their immediate constituencies than trustees for the whole State, if conflict arises between the interest of the two, in tax controversies.

It is a sense of the injustice of unequal taxation, rather than the amount of the tax itself, which induces many men to return property at unfairly small valuations. It is common to hear a tax payer explain, when complaint is made of such acts, that he "gives in his property just like his neighbors." Considerations such as these, which move individuals, are not without their influence on local boards, in dealing with assessments. There has been more than one instance recently where county boards, ascertaining that property has been assessed generally at higher valuations in their jurisdiction, than property of equal value in adjoining counties, have reduced valuations, admittedly fair and just, solely because like property in a neighboring jurisdiction was not assessed sufficiently high. Such action is a flagrant perversion of the power of supervision and a declaration that the law if not fairly executed by their neighbors it shall not be respected at home. It multiplies inequality of burdens and undervaluations, but does not equalize taxation in interest of the vast body of tax payers. To prevent these and kindred evils there should be one central authority, with jurisdiction co-extensive with the State, instead of sixty-six independent tribunals, with limited territorial jurisdiction, as now, to supervise and effect equal and just assessments throughout the State.

Ohio, Maine, California and Illinois have State Boards of Assessments, which are a great improvement upon systems like ours. There are conditions in those States, however, which do not obtain here; and none of these laws, without amendment, would be desirable; though they furnish useful examples upon which to model laws of our own.

The assessor is not an officer whose election or term of office is fixed by the Constitution, and it is competent for the legislature to abolish the office, or change the mode of filling it, at pleasure. It may be best not to disturb the tenure of the present tax assessors; for a law providing for their appointment in future would accomplish all the ends desired by a change in the present mode of filling the office.

I recommend that tax assessors be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate, or nominated by the Auditor and approved by the Governor, and that a State Board of Assessors be created, with exclusive or appellate jurisdiction, if that be preferred, of the whole matter of assessments.

The question is one of such importance, and the length of your session is so short, that I respectfully recommend the appointment, as soon as practicable, of a joint committee, with authority to sit during the recess, to consider and report proper legislation on the subject.

DRAIN UPON TREASURY FOR FEEDING PRISONERS.

Rate per Diem.

I concur in the Auditor's recommendation that the price of feeding prisoners be reduced from thirty to twenty cents per day. The latter sum will purchase fully as much wholesome food now, as thirty cents would buy at the time that rate was fixed. The ration usually furnished prisoners is very simple, and the cost of cooking the food quite small. When the number of prisoners is small their meals are usually furnished from the jailor's table, and when the prisoners are numerous they can be fed cheaper in proportion, and the cost of extra cooking is more than over-balanced by the relative reduction in the cost per head. Legislation should in the interest of humanity prescribe the kind of food of which the ration must consist, and the minimum quantity for each prisoner.

Change in the rate, however, is not the only beneficial way in which legislation can relieve the treasury of the constant drain for feeding prisoners. The expense under this head has risen, in round numbers, from $49,000 in 1884 to $105,000 in 1894. Neither population nor crime has grown at that rate, and the explanation is not to be found in a proportionate increase of crime during the past ten years. This constantly swelling menace to the treasury is mainly the result of giving fees to officers for services and witnesses for attendance in criminal cases.

CHANGE IN MODE OF PAYING FOR SERVICES OF OFFICERS IN CRIMINAL CASES.

The emoluments, of sheriffs, clerks, justices of the peace and constables depend very greatly upon their criminal business and in most instances it forms the greater part of their income. While I am far from assailing the rectitude of these meritorious officers as a class, and feel assured that the great majority of them have not been induced to swerve from conscientious discharge of duty, by the expectation of profit which flow from convictions, yet the fact remains, which is frequently commented upon by grand juries, and can not be ignored by legislators, that there are many officers, who for the sake of fees are stirred to bring every plausible case to the attention of magistrates and grand juries, and, often to incite prosecutions which are either unfounded or for slight infractions of law, which grand juries upon considerations of the public good often ignore.

The stream of prosecutions, which results from the fondness of one class of our population to resort to the criminal law to settle every petty dispute. would be greatly lessened, if many of the officers, before whom complainants are brought, were not made too ready to entertain them, by the temptation of fees in event of conviction. It is more frequent, too, than is creditable to humanity, that many small violations of law, which otherwise would not be prosecuted, are brought before the courts by a desire to earn a few dollars as a witness fee. As a result of these influences, hundreds and hundreds of petty prosecutions find their way into the courts and are tried there, and the State is put to enormous and largely unnecessary burdens for feeding prisoners, many of whom are finally acquitted, and most of whom ought never to have been prosecuted.

Alabama now makes felonies of many offenses, which were formerly misdemeanors or breaches of civil duty. The moment a prisoner is sentenced for a felony he becomes, if such an expression may be used to describe a human being, collateral, upon the delivery of which to the penitentiary the officer is entitled to draw from the State Treasury all the fees of conviction. This provision was based on the ground that as the State gets the hires, it is just that it pay the costs; but the interest concerned was powerful enough to put the burden upon the State absolutely, and compel payment in advance, whether the convict lived long enough to reimburse it. It matters not, under our present law, whether the prisoner be feeble, diseased or aged, or dies after he reaches the penitentiary—if only he is delivered there, he has a cash value. The inevitable result, is that the tax payers are burdened not only with costs of conviction, but, also, with the care of many sick, feeble, or aged convicts, whose crime and condition are such as would not otherwise invite prosecution.

The payment of fees of officers and witnesses out of the State Treasury upon the conviction of criminals is of comparatively recent date, and the administration of justice in former times was as efficient, and certainly as satisfactory, as under our present system. Our changed conditions make it unjust to officers to return to the old plan, but those conditions plead strongly for a decided change. The present system was in force when the Constitution was adopted, and section 9 of Article XI of that instrument does not circumscribe your power over the subject.

Government cannot undertake to compensate every member of society in money for every duty exacted of him in the interest of peace and good government. One of the hardest taxes upon the citizen is the law which compels certain of them to work upon the roads without any compensation other than the proportional benefit of good roads. The duty of a citizen to testify against the law breaker, especially where the offense is directed against the person or property of the witness, is an obligation which should be willingly performed without compensation. In cases of extreme poverty, provision should be made by law to reimburse the expenses of needy witnesses, whether summoned by the State or defendant.

There are numbers of our magistrates living in thinly settled precincts where crime is infrequent, who expect and take fees for their services simply because the law gives them. Patriotism and a desire to benefit their neighbors would cheerfully lead them to act as magistrates without fees in criminal cases if in the interest of the taxpayer, the legislature saw fit to withhold them; and whenever magistrates resigned on that account good men would be found to take their places. The constable, however, is differently situated, and so is the magistrate in a thickly settled beat, where criminal cases take a large portion of his time. Sheriffs and clerks upon whom criminal business is concentrated certainly could not be expected to serve without remuneration. It is not proposed, however, that any officer shall perform services in criminal cases without compensation, but only that the recompense shall not be dependent upon conviction, or measured by fees in each case, but that it be left to the judgment of the County authorities, in view of all the circumstances, to make at stated periods a fair allowance for the whole service rendered during that time. Under existing laws County authorities determine what amounts shall be paid for certain ex-officio services, and the proposed plan is simply an extension of that principle to other services.

Whether viewed from the standpoint of economy, morality or the advancement of justice, the law compelling officers to rely upon fees on convictions in criminal cases should be repealed.

SUBSTITUTE FOR PRESENT SYSTEM.

I recommend that all laws giving fees in criminal cases be repealed, and in lieu thereof, that it be made the duty of the several commissioners courts or boards of revenue to require from sheriffs, clerks, magistrates and constables, a sworn report of services performed during the past quarter in criminal cases, and make these officers such an allowance out of the county treasury as seems just in view of the whole services rendered. The counties might be reimbursed in the case of county convicts by such hires as were received; and, in case of felonies, provision might be made that the State, after deducting the expense of taking the convict to the penitentiary and maintaining him there, should reimburse out of the earnings, if they be sufficient, whatever the county had paid to officers for services in his case.

It is not unjust, however, that each community should bear the expense of convicting its own criminals; and the powerful safeguards which local interest would bring to bear against abuses in the administration of criminal justice, when each locality must bear its own burden, would most effectually prevent most of the evils of the present system. It is a safe estimate to say that the reduction to twenty cents per diem for feeding prisoners, and the change suggested as to the mode of compensating officers, would reduce the expenses for feeding prisoners about one half, or over fifty thousand dollars per annum.

I also repeat in this connection a recommendation from my last biennial message:

"The expense of feeding prisoners can be considerably decreased if judges of city and criminal courts were required at short intervals to inquire, in a summary way, into the cases of all persons confined in the jails in their counties upon charges of misdemeanor, and some of the lighter felonies which might be specified in the bill, and in their discretion, in view of the circumstances of the particular case, reduce the bail, or release prisoners on their own recognizance, when unable to furnish bail. Outside of the cities these duties could be required of probate judges, and the circuit court judges should be clothed with the same authority.

“An act of somewhat similar import was passed by the General Assembly in 1873, but not proving satisfactory was soon repealed. That act gave the defendant an absolute right to be released on his own recognizance, and left the magistrate no discretion whatever, no matter what the circumstances of the offense or the probability of the accused appearing for trial. The law now recommended avoids these objections, by vesting the discretion solely in the judge. The wise exercise of such a power by the judges would considerably reduce the expense of feeding prisoners, without proving in anywise detrimental to the administration of criminal justice.”

INCREASE OF TAXATION.

The Government of Alabama is economically administered. After all retrenchment within your power the necessity still confronts us of raising more revenue. Under existing laws and valuations the deficits for the past fiscal year, together with those of the next succeeding years, will aggregate $688,993.63. We cannot meet the necessities of the case by an issue of bonds, since the constitution forbids it. It will not be possible in the future to bridge ever our difficulties by temporary expedients, as has been done in the past, unless your action gives confidence that these deficits will be speedily lessened and soon liquidated. With better mode of assessments, and such savings as may be in your power, an additional tax of half a mill will soon place your finances in a healthy condition. I, therefore, recommend an increase in the rate to that extent.

Our situation compels choice of one of three alternatives; either largely reduce the appropriations for the public schools; disregard the public obligations; or increase the taxes. It is neither wise nor just to withdraw any of the existing appropriations from the schools. The people of Alabama will not consent to the dishonor and ruin which follow breach of the public faith. Increase of taxation is the only course left open. To the extent that such increase is necessary representatives may fearlessly impose it, with unhesitating faith in the patriotism and intelligence of an enlightened people.

FUNDING STATE'S BONDED INDEBTEDNESS.

At your last session an act was passed "To consolidate and adjust the bonded debt of the State," which contemplated the retirement of the present bonds and the issue of others at a lower rate of interest.

The act made no appropriation for the expenses of the funding. The new bonds would bear less interest than the old, and the only incentive to the exchanging the old for the new is the longer date to their maturity. The act did not give specific authority to make the new bonds payable in gold which would have added to their value among capitalists, especially those in Europe who would be most likely to invest in our new bonds, and to the inducements to holders of our present bonds to exchange. The outstanding bonds cannot be called in at the pleasure of the State, and to attempt to buy them up—if it had been possible to dispose of the new bonds at a premium, and thus obtain a fund with which to buy old bonds—would have run the old bonds up to a premium, which would practically put them out of reach. Another difficulty is that under the constitution an issue of new bonds can not be put upon the market and sold to provide a fund to buy up bonds whose holders were unwilling to exchange. New bonds can only be issued dollar for dollar to take up the old bonds, and only as fast as old bonds are surrendered for exchange. To make any funding plan a success it was therefore, necessary to induce capitalists, who would be willing to advance money, to undertake the funding operations. The uncertainty prevailing as to the financial policy of the United States during the long extra session of congress defeated my early efforts to interest bond-holders or others in any funding arrangement. Another effort, made last spring, was likewise unsuccessful, because bondholders and others concerned preferred to wait the result of our State election and the action which the legislature would take to improve our financial condition.

It is advisable to enact new legislation on the subject which should make the necessary appropriation for expenses, and give the governor authority to make the bonds payable in gold, if that be found necessary, and leave the details of the negotiations as flexible as possible.

THE CONVICT DEPARTMENT.

On the first of September, 1894, there were 1,577 State convicts and 915 county convicts. The State convicts are located as follows: 792 at Pratt Mines, 334 at Spigeners' and 271 at the Walls and Fort Jackson. The convicts at the Walls are mainly the women and disabled, while those at Spigener's, as a rule, are unfit for work in the mines. The county convicts are nearly all located at Pratt Mines and Coalburg.

The executive and legislature of 1892 come into power by the votes of a majority which declared, to quote the phrase in which their wishes were embodied, that "we demand that free labor shall be relieved of competition with convicts, and all necessary laws shall be enacted to forever prevent such competition."

It was not for those to whom this duty was committed to refuse to perform it, because the change would entail heavy burdens upon the people. They had decided that matter for themselves. Accordingly, earnest efforts were made to frame a system which would accomplish the desired ends, and complete it as early as the means at our control would permit. The State was fortunate in securing the services of very eminent business men to undertake the management of convicts under the new system, and their efforts were heartily seconded by all the officers of the convict department.

The managers purchased 4,508 acres of land at Spigeners at a cost of $44,722.25, all of which has been paid except $11,000. They also purchased 720 acres of land near the penitentiary at a cost of $5,748.34, all of which has been paid. This last purchase was made to secure a debt due the state for convict hires which could not otherwise have been collected. In making the purchase of these lands the Board had in view not only the present needs, but the enlargement of the system. The site was selected on account of its desirability for manufacturing purposes, its health, convenience of access and transportation facilities.

The entire income from all sources from Sept. 1st, 1892, to Sept. 1st, 1894, was $253,215.07, while the expenses during that period, including outlay for land and other property now on hand, were $205,551.54. In the expenditures, however, the amount disbursed for court costs is not included.

The foundations of the new system were laid, and much work done to perfect it. The managers, however, were without sufficient means to erect manufactures or establish plants which were essential to the proper employment of the convicts, and such of them as were available were employed in preparing the prisons at Spigeners, clearing the lands, making brick, and then engaged in agricultural pursuits. Without much larger appropriations than heretofore it will not be in the power of the managers to complete preparations in time to receive the large number of convicts which will come under their control at the expiration of the present lease, or to employ them afterwards in any way in which the department can be made self-sustaining. You will have to provide for all these contingencies.

The evils of the lease system are a part of the history of our State. If we return to that system, its evils will also return to plague us. If our situation compels a halt, the new system should not be abolished but only suspended.

I invite careful consideration of the report of the Board of Managers, and accompanying documents, which give detailed information of receipts and expenditures and other statistics. Their recommendations and suggestions are entitled to great weight, and I believe with them that it is practicable to complete the present system, if freed of the heavy burden of paying the costs, which has not only taken so much of the earnings of able convicts, but entailed upon the Department the support of so many who can not earn their subsistence, much less the costs of their conviction.

SUPPRESSION OF DISORDER DURING STRIKES.

Strike at New Decatur.

On October 3d, 1893, information was received of impending trouble of a serious nature at New Decatur, growing out of the strike of several hundred men employed in the railroad shops there. A forged order from the United States Court, directing the reinstatement of the strikers, impressed numbers of them with the belief that they would be justified in a forcible seizure of the shops, and that it would be unlawful for the guard at the shops to resist force by force. It was the prevalent opinion that the trouble would culminate next morning, and serious bloodshed and destruction of property ensue, which, under the existing conditions, the civil authorities could not prevent. Accordingly Col. Clark, with the local companies in Jefferson county, was ordered to proceed on a special train that night to Hartselle, not far from New Decatur, and there await orders, but was afterwards directed to proceed to the latter place which he reached early the next morning. The timely presence of the troops prevented all further trouble, and after receiving assurances from the organizations engaged in the strike that it should be conducted peaceably, the troops were ordered to return on the night of October 4th.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

On the 14th of April, 1894, over seven thousand coal miners in Jefferson, Walker and Bibb counties joined in a strike, partly for reasons of their own and partly in sympathy with the general strike ordered by the United Mine Workers of America. The strike was destined to be of long duration, and had the sympathy and assistance of large numbers of the people of those counties, which, until finally alienated by repeated acts of violence, were often misinterpreted by the lawless as tacit, if not open, encouragement of their violence, and added very greatly to the difficulty of maintaining law and order.

The country was then slowly recovering from the terrible depression of the previous year, and this strike added to the number of unemployed and suffering, and the consequent danger of turbulence. Success of the strike depended upon restricting the output of coal; but the work of the large number of convicts in the mines threatened to defeat that result, and inflamed resentment to such a pitch that many of the more violent strikers advocated force to remove the convicts. Among this violent class, a few of whom had purchased arms and drilled together, were a number of negro miners, some of whom were ex-convicts, quite a number of white miners who could not speak our language, and many who had left Tennessee because of their participation in the "Coal Creek War." A heated political struggle was then in progress, and there were not wanting men who, for partisan ends, fomented irritation and made appeals to the lowest passions of the unemployed. Serious commotions and turbulence seemed inevitable, and I therefore kept in constant communication with the sheriff, and perfected arrangements for promptly gathering and receiving intelligence of any changes in the situation.

During the first few days of the strike conservative miners checked open acts of violence, but it was ushered in with intimidation and threats against the persons and property of those who continued at work. Apprehension that these threats would be carried out, caused many appeals to the civil authorities for protection, resulting in the stationing of scores of deputies around the mines, which further intensified feeling.

In consequence of representations of anticipated trouble next day, I visited Birmingham on April 21st and conferred with the sheriff. Anxious to avoid the use of the troops, and desiring to bring to the aid of the civil authorities the active co-operation of the strikers, as well as to place responsibility upon them, as far as possible, for the maintenance of order, I had a conference next day with the Executive Board of the United Miners of Alabama, which, as the representative head of the miners, was charged with the conduct of the strike. After reviewing the laws bearing upon the situation and explaining to the committee that the authorities were not charged with any functions concerning the strike, as such, and, so long as the peace was preserved, could do nothing that could possibly affect it, except to use their good offices, if practicable, to bring about a satisfactory adjustment, I impressed upon the members the consequences which would result from violence, and the obligation which rested upon them to give active aid and moral support to the authorities. The committee promised to do all in its power; but admitted there were a number of miners whom it could not control and for whom it would not answer. Whatever the committee's good intentions, I soon learned that its influence was a very slight barrier to acts of violence upon the part of the strikers.

During the next thirty days the situation grew steadily worse. Early in May, a large mob, mainly of striking miners from Jefferson county, invaded Horse Creek in Walker county in the night time, blew up the works at one mine with dynamite, and set fire to another, and then dispersed so quickly that pursuit was not practicable. Shortly afterwards, at Pratt Mines, in the vicinity of which the State convicts are confined, strikers murdered a miner named Glover, who refused to quit work, and attempted to assassinate another, named Holman, for the same reason. The presence of the sheriff with a strong posse to protect Holman from mob violence, while on a preliminary trial for a misdemeanor at Pratt City, excited so much hostility on the part of the strikers that a bloody riot was barely averted by the prudence and firmness of the sheriff. In the vicinity of Pratt Mines armed strikers secretly met for the purpose of releasing the convicts by force, and abandoned their contemplated attack solely because their leader, failing in courage, surrendered to the sheriff, and information had reached them that the local troops had been ordered to their armories. Armed bodies of miners began to move over the country in the night, and exchange of shots with the guards and the explosion of dynamite and other demonstrations to terrorize operators and miners were not infrequent.

It was not without hesitation that I refrained from ordering troops to the scene on my own responsibility, some days earlier than the sheriff called for them; since conditions far more favorable than ours for the preservation of the peace, in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and other mining States, during the same strike, speedily brought forth bloody riots, seizures of railroads, burning of bridges, and interruption of traffic, and it seemed unwise to risk further delay. The sheriff, however, who was on the ground, and who acted throughout with great wisdom and firmness, held to his conviction that the civil authorities and local military could cope with the situation, and did not ask for other than the local troops until the 25th day of May, when he made a formal call under the statute for further assistance.

The Second Regiment was at once ordered into camp at Ensley City, which had been previously selected, owing to its nearness to Pratt City and the convict stockades, and the ease with which other threatened points could be reached by rail. As it was about the season for the annual camps of instruction it was determined not to call the troops into active service for the enforcement of the laws, but to put the three regiments in succession in camp of instruction at Ensley City, for a period of ten days each, where their presence and availability for service, would accomplish all the desired ends. The Second Regiment was in its turn relieved by the First Regiment, and it, in turn, by the Third. In this way, at no other cost to the State than the subsistence and transportation of the men, a force of five hundred troops was constantly kept at Ensley during a period of thirty days. Their presence subdued all further attempts at organized violence, but could not prevent frequent attempts at bridge burning and assaults upon unprotected watchmen, to which the lawless confined themselves after the arrival of the troops. During the tour of duty of the First Regiment, 200 men, under Col. Williams, whom I accompanied, were ordered to Blue Creek to prevent a threatened attack upon the miners at work there; but news of the movement of the troops preceded them, and the mob, the numbers of which had been greatly exaggerated, had dispersed. A similar experience followed the sending of a detachment of 80 men from the same regiment on June 12th to Chinn's Trestle, the destruction of which was threatened by a body of armed men.

As the tour of duty of the last regiment expired on the 23rd of June, and the situation, though quiet, was not satisfactory, a force of about 250 officers and men, who volunteered for duty, were ordered into active service at Ensley for an indefinite period. On the 30th of June, no acts of violence having been repeated since the 23rd, and, after a personal conference with the Sheriff, this force was ordered home, as there were no indications of further trouble which the civil authorities and local military could not control.

THE RAILROAD STRIKE.

The passions of the miners's strike which were then slowly dying out were suddenly revived by the railroad strike which was inaugurated at Chicago under the auspices of the American Railway Union, and extended to Birmingham on the night of July 7th.

This same strike by its blockade of inter-State highways elsewhere had already thrown numbers of our workmen out of employment, denied many of our farmers a market for their produce, and increased the cost of the necessaries of life to all. The acts of violence and bloodshed, at times bordering almost on a state of war, which accompanied this strike in its progress through other States to Alabama, gave emphatic warning of what might be expected from it here. The repetition and increase of these evils by a lawless blockade of our own highways would have been calamitous. The minds of many ordinarily self poised men employed upon our railroads seemed possessed of a temporary frenzy, which made them easy converts to this causeless crusade against our prosperity, and aggravated as the situation was by the disorders and passions of another strike, it was difficult to foresee the intensity and duration of the struggle precipitated by the movement. It seemed a duty, therefore, to appeal to the reason and patriotism of those of our own citizens who were expected to engage in this war upon our own people, as well as to arouse public opinion against it. Accordingly on the 7th day of July I issued a proclamation denouncing the folly and wickedness of attempting to interrupt the use of our railways, and bring harm upon the whole people, in order to force the adjustment of a dispute between a Chicago manufacturer and his workmen, with which the people of Alabama had no concern, and in the settlement of which they had neither voice, influence nor control.

Adequate preparations to suppress the lawlessness which was imminent, could not ignore the grave consideration that the turbulence born of this new strike would surely be swelled in volume by renewed violence in furtherance of the old strike, and that to the task of subduing the combined forces of both in Jefferson county might be added the necessity of dealing at the same time, with disorder resulting from attempts to blockade our highways at other points, unless the fate of the effort at Birmingham discouraged such attempts elsewhere. Accordingly cautionary orders were issued to all the troops, and preparations made to afford strong and prompt support to the civil authorities.

July 8th, the second day of this strike, was one of anxiety in Birmingham. The turbulence of the parent strike in Chicago, and its probable effect upon the local strike were all-absorbing topics, and added greatly to the excitement. Owing to the depressed condition of business, and the long duration of the mining strike, many men were out of employment and becoming desperate, and this new strike doubled their number; while all the lawless elements in the city were ready to take advantage of any opportunity it might afford for incendiarism and plunder. Crowds of strikers, though many sight-seers mingled with them, gathered in the passenger station and approaches, making the movement of trains almost impracticable. Committees or individuals met each train on arrival and departure, and by persuasion and threats sought to induce the train men to leave their posts, and this led to frequent quarrels and altercations, while the vast throng looked on, jeered and yelled, and hourly became more disorderly and reckless.

The small police force and deputies who could be spared from other points was too weak either to clear the station or preserve order. Any attempt by this small force to do so, especially if blood was shed, as was probable in the temper of the crowds, would have been the signal for general bloodshed and destruction of property; and, on the other hand, to stand still and allow the disorder of these crowds to continue unchecked much longer was sure to result in rioting and destruction of property. A reliable and effective posse was not available to the civil authorities under the prevailing conditions, and they looked forward to the next day with grave forebodings.

I reached Birmingham at midnight on July 8th, and at once conferred with the sheriff and acting mayor. We all agreed that a strong body of troops should be thrown in the city at once, and proper orders to that end were immediately issued. Under statutory authority all bar-rooms and gun shops were ordered to close.

The local troops under Col. Clark were ordered to take possession of the station and disperse the crowds there early the next morning, without waiting the arrival of other troops, knowledge of whose coming tended to prevent any resistance which might otherwise have been opposed to the local troops alone. The station and approaches were cleared without much serious resistance. As Col. Clarke and his command had been on duty almost constantly since the beginning of the strike it was determined to relieve them on the arrival of the other troops and hold them in reserve, which was done about midday on the 9th of July when about 600 men, under Major Gen'l Whiting, whom I had assigned to the command, reported in Birmingham.

During the next week the troops were employed in guarding and regulating the passenger station and approaches, protecting the round-houses and other railroad property which was threatened with destruction, dispersing the crowds and preventing interference with property and trains. The effect of public opinion as well as the display of the power of the State and the evident determination of the authorities to enforce the law, soon brought this reckless strike to an end.

RENEWED VIOLENCE OF MINERS' STRIKE.

On the 16th of July, all apprehension of danger from this strike having passed, and the situation being reported as peaceful in the mining districts, all the troops were relieved from duty and ordered home. About five o'clock in the evening and within two hours after the last of the troops had left, information was received at Birmingham, where I still remained, that a mob of several hundred armed strikers were murdering negroes and guards at slope number 3, near Pratt City, about eight miles distant from Birmingham. In the midst of the turmoil, in which the city was thrown by this news, several attempts were made to set fire to cars and destroy other property there. This violent outbreak in so short a time after the departure of the troops, and evidently planned with reference to it, and followed by simultaneous efforts at incendiarism in the city, indicated, not only the frenzy and madness which the presence of troops had kept in check, but a general combination on the part of the vicious elements to engage in simultaneous acts of violence in different parts of the county. An immediate return of the troops then enroute to their homes was therefore ordered. They commenced to arrive at Birmingham within three hours, and by next day the whole force was again on the grounds.

On the first news of the outbreak a small guard which had remained in camp to protect public property, was ordered to the scene, under Lieutenant Erwin of my staff, and instructions were sent to Col. Clarke to follow with the local battalion. Neither the sheriff's posse nor the troops were able to come up with the mob which had scattered after a sharp fight with a few of the guards, in which B. W. Tierce, one of the guards, and three negroes were killed, and other men wounded including several strikers. The near approach of darkness rendered the attempted pursuit impracticable, and the local troops were stationed for the night at the different slopes, and afterwards with other troops concentrated in camp at Ensley City, from whence they could easily move to repel attacks upon the miners in the adjacent mines, who were afraid to continue at work without such protection. The other troops were stationed in camp in the city of Birmingham to preserve order there and in the adjacent territory.

The sheriff within a few hours after the massacre near Pratt Mines, arrested over one hundred persons for participating in it, and confined them in the county jail, and there was apprehension of a forcible attempt to release them. Several efforts at incendiarism had occurred in the city, and a large fire was attributed to such an origin. Sentinels on duty were frequently stoned. The miners' strike was still unsettled, and renewed collisions were probable from efforts to put new men at work. It was, therefore, necessary to retain a strong body of troops in the county until normal conditions were restored, which was hastened by the action of the citizens of Birmingham in organizing and arming companies to support the civil authorities, when the troops were removed. The strength of the command was diminished as fast as improvement in the situation permitted, until the mining strike was settled. On August 14th the troops were removed, after a service in which large numbers of them had been on duty for a period of seventy-three days. The railroad companies made no charge for the transportation of troops during the railroad strike. The expense for transportation, subsistence and pay of the troops, during the period for which they were ordered into active service, amounted to $35,385.95, which, in view of the number of troops, the distances over which they were transported, and the length of service, was light, and reflects great credit upon the staff departments, the burden of whose labor fell mainly on Col. B. L. Holt, Quartermaster General.

Thus ended the most formidable and threatening commotion in the history of our State, in times of peace. Its lessons will not be unheeded. The time is distant when lawless combinations, no matter what their strength will again challenge the supremacy of the laws by force, or forget the deep attachment of the masses for the blessings of liberty regulated by law, which caused thousands of our citizens, at the first sign of danger, to volunteer for the defense of the State. Our people have been taught as never before in this generation, the force of the truth declared by the fathers that a well regulated militia "is necessary to the security of a free State." The comparative ease with which the disorder was confined to narrow limits and finally subdued, when contrasted with the struggle under like conditions elsewhere which brought forth so much of anarchy and terror, gives to the world assurance that the blessings of peace and enlightened government are nowhere more highly prized, or better secured against the domination of mobs, than in our midst.

MOBS AND REMEDIES TO PREVENT THEM.

While the ability of the State to deal with open revolts against the supremacy of its laws has been amply demonstrated, I regret that deplorable acts of violence have been perpetrated, in at least four instances, within the past two years by mobs, whose work and quick dispersions rendered it impossible to protect their victims. Within the past two years nine prisoners, who were either in jail or in the custody of the officers, have been taken from them without resistance, and put to death. There was doubt of the guilt of the defendants in most of these cases, and few of them were charged with capital offenses. None of them involved the crime of rape. The largest rewards allowed by law were offered for the apprehension of the offenders, and officers were urged to a vigilant performance of their duties, and aided in some instances by the services of skilled detectives; but not a single arrest has been made and the grand juries in these counties have returned no bills of indictment. This would indicate either that local public sentiment approved these acts of violence or was too weak to punish them, or that the officers charged with that duty were in some way lacking in their performance. The evil can not be cured or remedied by silence as to its existence. Unchecked, it will continue until it becomes a reproach to our good name, and a menace to our prosperity and peace; and it behooves you to exhaust all remedies within your power to find better preventives for such crimes.

A committee of the general assembly has far greater facilities for extracting facts than the executive. I recommend that an investigation be made of these cases, which if productive of no other result, will at least convince law breakers that the State will exhaust every means within its power to punish mobs.

It can not be denied that in many instances the success of these efforts against prisoners, is due either to cowardice, false standards of duty, or the sympathy of officers with the lawless purpose to dispose of their prisoners.

Some indeed contend that an officer is not bound in law and honor to fight in defense of his prisoner, if he thereby risks the loss of his own life, or where resistance, if attempted, would prove useless. Such a standard of duty finds no support in the law of either God or man, and subverts the great law of honor, which runs through all the relations of life, that when a man becomes another's keeper he assumes relations which he can not evade or throw off at will, no matter what the personal peril to himself. A statute declaring in terms that any officer entrusted with the custody of prisoners is bound in law and honor to fight in their defense against mobs, no matter what the peril to the officer, or the probability of successful resistance; would have a happy effect.

As a further stimulus to courageous discharge of duty in such cases, authority should be vested in the governor to suspend from office, until the next meeting of the next general assembly which would pass upon the case, any officer who fails to resist mob violence against his prisoners. Impeachment proceedings are not regarded as formidable, in localities where grand juries and magistrates alone are unable to obtain any proof as to the participants in mob outrages, when it is almost matter of common knowledge in the neighborhood.

It would also quicken public opinion, and aid in suppressing mob outrages, if a statute were passed giving the family or next of kin of any person who is taken from the custody of the officers of the law and put to death by a mob, a right of recovery against the county where the crime occurred, unless blood is shed in defense of the prisoner, or some of the participants in the mob are convicted within a year.

Statutes of this kind early found their way into the laws of the mother country and remain unrepealed after long experience, and their principle has been further extended in some of our sister states by making cities and communities answerable to owners of property destroyed by mobs. Such legislation is not amenable to the objections which some years ago caused the repeal of a somewhat similar statute of our own. That statute gave a penalty against the county not only where any person was murdered by any "outlaw," or by any "person in disguise," or "for past or present party affiliation," but also in cases of certain assaults and batteries. Its effect was to draw the community into litigation over almost every homicide, and to induce perjury in order to attach a political hue to many violations of laws, solely for the sake of personal gain.

All men realize when a prisoner in the actual custody of the law is taken away by lawless violence and put to death, that a double crime is committed; for not only is a citizen murdered, but the dignity and authority of the state are outraged and defied at the same time. A civil responsibility fastened upon the community which permits such outrages, and elects officers who will not resist them by force, would bring none of the evil consequences of the former statute, and would be promotive of peace and the protection and security of life.

One cause of mob violence is the delay in the trial of criminals in our courts. The judicial force is not sufficient to promptly try offenders, when courts of criminal jurisdiction are held but twice a year in a county, and the time allotted for their sessions is frequently insufficient to dispose of all the business. I renew the suggestion in my special message of February 6th, 1893, that a new circuit created out of some small county or counties whose business will require but little time, leaving the judge subject to directions from the governor or chief justice to hold special terms of court for the trial of criminals in cases where the public good would be imperiled by waiting until the next regular term. The mode suggested is the only feasible one under the present constitution, to cure the evils of long intervals between the terms of court, and consequent delay in the trial of criminal cases, and the clogging of business where judges are prevented by sickness or other providential cause from holding regular terms. The saving in the cost of feeding of prisoners, to say nothing of the other public benefits, would more than reimburse the State for the salary of the additional judge.

THE STATE TROOPS.

The State troops are composed of the flower of the young men of all classes of our population. They are as indispensable an arm of the government as the courts or the legislature, and their effective existence gives a sense of security and confidence in a continued reign of law and public tranquility, which is of inestimable value to the prosperity and happiness of the people. Patriotism and earnest devotion to the law are the sole incentives to the citizen soldier to the risk of life, pecuniary loss, and deprivations, which fall to his lot in the service of the State. They receive no other reward than the consciousness of duty faithfully performed. The State makes little provision for them. The demagogue and anarchist deride them. The good citizen too often misunderstands them, and is indifferent to their welfare, yet year after year the organization has continued so increase in efficiency, and render willing service to the people. This splendid organization, which more than once has stood between law and anarchy, and has never yet been aught but the trusted servant of the civil power, deserves and should receive all the encouragement and aid in your power. Any reduction in the small support which the State now gives them would promote anarchy, not economy.

A large debt of gratitude is due for the great service of the State Troops in the troubles last Summer. For thirty days, without other compensation than food while on the scene of trouble, and transportation to it, they stood guard over life and property, at much personal inconvenience and loss; and for another longer period, during their active service, they received a pittance which the day laborer would refuse for peaceful employment, while civil officers and private guards, doing like duty as the troops, were handsomely compensated. Under most galling provocations and insult there was no instance of oppression of the citizen, or the slightest disrespect of the civil authorities. Their conduct excited the admiration of all law abiding people, and won the respect even of the lawless.

The report of the Adjutant General gives an interesting and detailed account of the military operations during the late trouble, and contains many recommendations to which your earnest attention is invited; especially those relating to the re-organization of the regiments in the interest of economy and to conform to a change in the tactics.

The State is now responsible for all the arms and camp equipage in the hands of the troops, which remain the property of the United States and are accounted for to it. Two of the batteries are without proper shelter for their guns, and there is no provision by which proper armories can be rented for them. This should be remedied.

Lt. J. B. Erwin, 4th U. S. Cavalry, who has long been on duty with the State troops, has been ordered to return to his regiment on the 15th of December next. It is due him to acknowledge the valuable aid and services rendered at all times, and especially during the time when the troops were in the field last Summer.

SUPPRESSION OF BOYCOTTING.

The evils of "boycotting" require further legislation at your hands. Unlike the strike, it is not a legitimate weapon of offense or defense, since it assails those who are strangers to the quarrel. By threats of inquiry to his business and relations with others, it seeks to enforce the citizens to become a partner in the reprisals and revenges of other men, and thus embroils individuals and communities in every controversy within their borders. It is destructive of individual liberty and freedom of action; the oppression of the weak and defenseless, and is the ready instrument of anarchy. It is this spirit which burned bridges and imperiled the lives of innocent travelers last summer; because railroads would not violate imperative duties to the public by refusing to transport coal, dug by workmen obnoxious to others who would not then work in the mines. It is the same spirit, grown insolvent with fancied power, which lately attempted to blockade our highways, and inflict grievous harm upon the people of the whole State, because public carriers, defying lawless dictation, declined to transgress the law, by boycotting a carbuilder who had an unsettled quarrel with his workmen in another State. Civil remedies are not adequate to protect society or individuals against such wrongs. Criminal legislation can effectually deal with this growing evil.

BETTER PROTECTION TO LABOR.

Strikes, though in form differences with employers, are often nothing more than relentless war of labor against labor, in which those who leave unsatisfactory employment wage war upon others, to whom it is satisfactory, to prevent their accepting it. When strikes assume this phase the dignity and rights of labor are most trampled down by those who profess to champion them; and the sacred right of the workman to determine for himself when, for whom, and at what price he will labor, is wrenched from him by deplorable intimidation and violence on the part of his fellowworkmen. Public opinion, at last must be the main corrective for much of this evil, but true friendship for labor, as well as a due regard for society, requires more stringent provisions than our laws now furnish, to prevent and punish intimidation and violence against men who work, on the part of others who insist on keeping them idle.

ARBITRATION FOR LABOR TROUBLES.

In this era of over production and extraordinary transportation facilities, and the ruinous competition which they beget in many branches of industry and trade, it is not always the fault of men that they are without work, or of employers that they do not offer or pay remunerative wages. Contentions between employer and employed as to wages and the modes of conducting business will perhaps be more frequent in the future than in the past. The right to strike which is often used as a remedy in such controversies, like the right to bear arms, is often abused: but it is essential to self-defense and ought not to be curtailed. Strikes are generally, public evils, and wise statemanship will seek to diminish their frequency. Many labor contentions would not take the form of strikes if the opposing parties had a tribunal, which commanded their confidence, to which they could voluntarily resort to submit the justice of their respective differences. The creation of such Boards of arbitration, models of which can be found in the legislation of several of our sister States, would tend to lessen the frequency of strikes and to more satisfactory relations between workmen and employers, and I, therefore, recommend such legislation.

The power of such Boards must, of course, be confined to the decision and publication of the merits of controversies, leaving it to the interest of the parties and the power of public opinion to induce submission to their awards. Compulsory arbitration as a remedy for any labor trouble is a delusion. The power, which can compel the workman to labor for a given period at a price or on terms fixed by others without his consent, has absolute mastery over him and would finally enslave him; while on the other hand, any tribunal which can determine, against the consent of the owner, what value shall be allowed for the use of his property and skill in a business, or the terms upon which it shall be conducted, is a tyrant, which can confiscate his property and destroy his liberty. The granting of such power over either workmen or employers, even if the Constitution permitted, would be a fatal blow to free institutions and a backward step for civilization. It make serfs of those who work, and State tenants of those who own property.

AMENDMENT OF ELECTION LAW.

It is to be regretted that laws relating to the ballot should ever be matters of partisan dispute. The legislation at your last session which is nothing more than the Australian system, with liberal modifications to prevent disfranchisement of unlettered voters, was most bitterly opposed by those who claimed to be most strenuous advocates of fair elections. Time and experience have proved that the law was not open to the objections so violently urged against it, and the results have given satisfaction. To induce cheerful acquiescence in the declared result, elections should not only be fair but should be believed to be fair. This can be accomplished by legislation securing the appointment of inspectors, clerks and fixers at each polling place, nominated by the proper authorities of each of the parties having candidates to be voted for at the election. I recommend such legislation.

I also renew the following suggestion from my last biennial message :

“The people rule and execute their policies through political parties. The party primaries and conventions by which men are named for public service, therefore, become of vital concern to the state. The safeguards which the law throws around legal elections, may, in a large measure, be wisely extended to these preliminary gatherings of the citizens, which in reality give and transfer the political power of the state. Such safeguards would also add to public content, and disarm the cry of fraud, in which disappointment sincerely indulges, but which quite as frequently is the unmanly acceptance of defeat, and insincerely urged to further future ambitions.”

ENCOURAGEMENT OF MANUFACTURES.

Some of our sister states exempt from taxation for a limited period property invested in factories and like undertakings, while Alabama does not. This has induced many enterprises, which, on account of climate and nearness of raw material, are now leaving their old locations to go to neighboring states, when otherwise they would come to Alabama. It may not be wise to exempt any property now here from taxation, because a manufacturing plant is located upon it. On the other hand, it does not seem unwise or inequitable while taxing the land upon which a plant is located to exempt from taxation, for a limited period, plants and capital invested in enterprises which would not come here but for such inducements. If it is within your power, about which there is considerable doubt, such legislation would be productive of much good, not only by attracting thrift and capital, but in the end in adding largely to the taxable values. While not a duty which could be imposed upon them by law, I doubt not that the judges of the supreme court, if requested by a joint resolution of the two houses, would give their opinion on the subject, and the question would be practically settled. If favorable, the general assembly could pass such legislation as it deems desirable, at the present session, and investors would then act with confidence.

CHANGE OF PUNISHMENT FOR SOME MISDEMEANORS.

We have far too many misdemeanors, and our system of imprisonment for costs as well as fines often inflicts sentences of shocking severity even for the lightest offenses. A sentence for a chance affray, for instance, or a failure to work the roads, may warrant nothing more than the imposition of a very light fine, but when the imprisonment for costs is added it swells the punishment out of all proportion to the gravity of the offense. The man who pays the small fine and costs receives his liberty, while the other, having no estate, is punished by months of hard labor in the mines. It is difficult to defend either the severity of the sentence or the discrimination, since it seems a punishment for poverty rather than crime. The man who suffers such imprisonment smarts under its injustice and is often ruined as a citizen.

The number of punishments, out of all proportion to the degree of the offense, is very large and should cause solicitude. It would be far better in punishing most misdemeanors, certainly those that involve little or no moral turpitude, to provide a less severe and more uniform penalty. Instead of sending defendants to the mines for months to pay the costs of conviction for slight misdemeanors, it would be better, especially for the first offense, to substitute punishment by solitary confinement in jail, upon bread and water, for a few days. Such punishment administered under the direction of a medical man would not be "cruel or unusual." It would not be out of proportion to the offense, nor as severe or degrading as long imprisonment in the mines, and would have as great an effect in inducing observance of the law. Such confinement would not directly produce revenue, but in the end it would save the multiplication of convicts, and the resultant evils.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The total amount, including poll taxes, appropriated for public schools for the scholastic year ending September 30, 1894, was $633,519.41. The number of pupils enrolled was white, 190,305; blacks, 115,709. They were taught by 4,412 white and 2,296 black teachers, the white schools numbering 4,439 and those for blacks 2,196, exclusive of schools in cities and separate school districts.

In spite of the depressed condition of the country the public schools have made considerable progress during the past two years. Under the wise administration of the superintendent, the schools have improved in excellence, while public interest in them has been greatly quickened, and the people have become more thoroughly aroused to the necessity of a vigorous and concerted private effort to supplement the state appropriation.

In our present condition, you will not find it possible to increase the appropriation from the state, unless it be by means of more efficient provision for the collection of the poll taxes. The interesting report of the superintendent contains some valuable recommendations to which your attention is directed.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The annual reports of the trustees of the University of Alabama for the last two years will be submitted to you. They show in detail its condition, and the gratifying progress and improvement made in its several departments. While the attendance has been less than in more prosperous years, it has continued to improve in other respects, and nothing is lacking, under the guidance of its able body of professors, to rank it among the highest institutions of the kind in this country, save a large endowment fund, which is not now in your power to grant.

AGRICULTURAL & MECHANICAL COLLEGE.

The reports of the trustees of the A. & M. College shows that this institution is in a prosperous condition and doing excellent work for the state, especially in the department of technical education, for which it is so well fitted. It is a great ornament to Alabama and its excellence has attracted attention in foreign countries as well as our own.

ALABAMA BRYCE INSANE HOSPITAL.

This great charity continues to stand among the foremost institutions of the kind in the world. No one would wish to see its usefulness curtailed. The reports of the trustees, which give full information of its condition, show the excellent system and economy which pervade the institution.

INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF.

The report of the trustees of the Alabama Institute for the Deaf, which includes that of the Academy for the Dumb, the Academy for the Blind, and schools for negro deaf mutes and blind, will be laid before you. The excellent printing of this report, which will attract attention, is the work of its pupils.

These institutions are doing great good and are well managed. The state, and these institutions alike, sustained a great loss in the death of Dr. Henry Joseph Johnson, their late principal. He was to the deaf, dumb and blind what Bryce was to the insane, which is high but nevertheless just praise.

OYSTER LAW.

Under the present law the expenses of inspection are greater than the income, and legislation should be had at this session to remedy the evil, either by lessening the number of inspectors or by increasing the tax, and also to cure some obscurities in the act in particulars which will be laid before you.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The report of the state board of health shows the great work of this important department, not the least of which was the conduct of the quarantine against yellow fever in 1893, when that duty was undertaken for the first time by the state. This quarantine was faithfully and economically conducted, and gave a satisfaction and sense of public security which was not possible under the old system when numerous local bodies, each for itself, enforced varying and sometimes conflicting regulations. I acknowledge the cordial co-operation and great service of the state health officers. It would be false economy to lessen in any way the present support of the state to this department; for it grows more and more indispensable to the welfare of the people.

RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The reports of the railroad commission give a full insight into the good work of this department.

The relations between the railroads and the people are generally amicable. Many of our railroads are in the hands of receivers, and it has been a struggle on the part of others to prevent a like fate. I am sure that any encouragement which can be extended by any wise legislation to these great developers of our state will find favor at your hands.

EXAMINER OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

The reports of the examiner of public accounts are in the hands of the public printer and will be laid before you. The work of this meritorious and excellent officer speaks for itself, and has been of great benefit to the public service.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

The report of the commissioner of agriculture shows the good work of this department, which has been largely directed to inducing desirable immigration, as well as directing attention to the growing of tobacco, and improvements in farming methods generally. At the last session the tax on fertilizers was reduced to 25 cents per ton. The purpose of this legislation was to reduce the price to consumers to the extent of the reduction from the former tax. It has not had that effect.

The appropriations made out of the funds arising from this source, including those at the last session, imperatively requires an increase of the tax or the withdrawal of the appropriations. I recommend the former.

CODIFICATION OF LAWS.

Under the constitution the laws must be codified in 1896. It will devolve on you at this session to pass proper statutes authorizing the work, in order that the results may be laid before your successors and adopted within the time fixed by the constitution.

MAIMED AND INDIGENT SOLDIERS' FUND.

The laws on this subject need amendment to prevent unworthy applicants from sharing in the benefits of the special tax. I recommend legislation requiring the appointment by the Governor of a board of three citizens in each county, with proper authority, to investigate and pass upon claims of applicants. Old soldiers would be glad to serve upon such boards, without compensation, since it would enable them to protect their comrades from imposition, and in counties where it was not practicable to appoint such boards, there would be many others, who for the good to be accomplished, would cheerfully act without charge. Under the present law, there is practically no way to contest the claim of an unworthy applicant, and few people know of it until it has been paid. The applications are wholly ex parte, and the probate judge often has no means of testing the bona fides of the claimant.

REPORTS OF AUDITOR AND TREASURER.

The reports of these officers give full details of the amount and nature of receipts and disbursements. The treasurer has been faithful and prompt in the discharge of his duties, and has given hearty co-operation in all my efforts to keep the treasury in funds. The auditor has been vigilant, industrious and fearless in the performance of his duties. His report contains many valuable recommendations, concerning the better collection of the revenues, and upon other kindred subjects, which I am sure you will not overlook in framing revenue measures.

SALE OF SWAMP AND OVERFLOWED LANDS.

Under the act approved February 14th, 1893, "To dispose of swamp and overflowed lands patented to this state," they were advertised and sold as required by law. No complaint was lodged with the Governor as to the fairness of the sales, in which contingency alone the governor was authorized to set the sales aside. The net proceeds of the sales were $23,405.67. As these lands were being depredated upon continually and their passing into private hands would result in their being settled and improved, it was wise policy to dispose of them.

SCHOOL INDEMNITY LANDS.

None of the school indemnity lands certified to the state under contract with Col. John H. Caldwell have been disposed of by sale or lease within the past two year. It was not deemed wise, in view of the financial stringency, to put any of these lands on the market.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The duties of this responsible department have been wisely and energetically discharged. The attorney-general's report is now passing through the press, and I have not had an opportunity to examine it closely. I concur in his recommendation regarding additional legislation to prevent reversals in the supreme court upon technicalities which do not touch the merits of the case or the fairness of the trial.

TRIBUTES.

Twice within the past two years it has been my sad duty to order the flag at half mast for officers who died in the service of the state.

On the 18th day of July, 1893, General James T

Holtzelaw, associate railroad commissioner, died. As a soldier he rendered distinguished service to the state, and in days of peace, long labored for the advancement of her good. His death, just as he was beginning a new sphere of usefulness, was a severe loss to public service.

Chief Justice George W. Stone departed this life on the 11th of March, 1894. There have been few in any age who have more aided than he to build up justice, or moulded for the better the jurisprudence of the people among whom he lived, or who has left a deeper trace in his career of everything which a conscientious judge ought to propose for his ambition, or his virtue or his glory. His illustrious career, whether measured by the extraordinary length of service, or the marked ability with which he disposed of new and perplexing questions, has few parallels in the history of the English peoples; for during fifty years he expounded the law in times of passion and war, and amid the changing scenes of revolution, as well as in the calmer days of peace. No man ever lived in Alabama who did her more honor, and none ever died within her borders, whose death was a greater calamity.

CONCLUSION.

The past two years have not been seasons of prosperity. Abundant harvests have brought scant rewards. Industry and enterprise, in all their varied forms, have returned but little profit. Many of our people are profoundly discouraged. These things you will not overlook in devising measures for their welfare, neither will you forget that a people's confidence in their own resources and ability to master present ills, is, at last, the surest hope of future prosperity.

What confidence will we or others have in the future of Alabama, if, yielding to temporary depression, it now shrivels any of the functions of good government, rather than submit to increased burdens, not as great as those cheerfully borne by this people, under far worse conditions, a little more than a decade ago. What will be our advancement if the public schools be crippled, the public faith unkept, or our state denied adequate means to administer justice, protect life and property, enforce the law, and discharge the numberless tasks which enlightened statesmanship demands government to undertake, in the interest and happiness of the people? If all these duties are not performed in full measure, disaster, discontent and suffering are sure to follow.

Our natural resources are almost boundless, and a state which is worthy of them will speedily work out greater prosperity if we do not block the way and fetter the future by unwise legislation, born of discouragement and a stunted trust in the wisdom and patriotism of the people.

Whatever I may do to lighten or aid your labors will be my care, during the brief term of service which remains to me, and I invoke upon your deliberations the blessing and aid of Him without whose favor man's government can not wisely rule.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RULES.

Mr. Brooks from the committee on rules submitted the following report:

RULES.

RULE 1. The speaker shall take the chair every day at the hour fixed on the preceding adjournment; shall immediately call the members to order, and on the appearance of a quorum, cause the journal of the preceding day to be read.

2. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his chair for that purpose. He shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house, at the request of any member; which appeal shall be decided without debate.

3. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting. All questions shall be distinctly put in this form, viz: "Those in favor of (as the question may be) say aye," and after the affirmative voice is expressed, "Those opposed to the motion say No." If the speaker doubts, or a division is called for, the house shall divide. Those in the affirmative of the question shall rise from their seats; and afterwards those in the negative.

4. He shall have a right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment. Whenever he is sick, or otherwise providentially unable to attend, or necessarily absent, the house shall elect a speaker pro tem, who shall discharge the duties of speaker till his return and no longer.

5. Fifteen members shall have power to send for absent members or to move a call of the house; but no call of the house shall be made except on the concurrence of a majority of the members present. A majority of the house shall be a quorum to transact business.

6. When any member is about to speak or deliver any matter to the house, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the speaker.

7. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules, the speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order; in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the house shall, if appealed to, decide on the case without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member so called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the house.

8. When two or more members happen to rise at the same time, the speaker shall name the person who is first to speak.

9. No member shall speak more than twice to the same question without leave of the house, unless he be the mover or chairman of the committee proposing the matter pending, in which case he shall be permitted to speak in reply, but not until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

10. Upon the call of the house for taking the ayes and noes on any question, names of the members shall be called alphabetically, and each member shall answer from his seat.

11. When any question is taken by ayes and noes, and a member who has been absent returns before the question is decided, he shall be privileged to make inquiry of the subject before the house, and record his vote without discussion.

12. When a motion is made, it shall be stated by the speaker; or if in writing, shall be read aloud by the clerk; and every motion shall be reduced to writing if the speaker or any member request it.

13. Any member may call for a division of the question when the sense will admit of it.

14. Members shall particularly forbear personal reflections; nor shall any member name another in argument or debate.

15. After a motion is stated by the speaker, or read by the clerk, it shall be deemed in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn by leave of the house, at any time before decision.

16. When a question is before the house, motions may be received in the following order, to-wit: 1st. To fix the time to which the house shall adjourn. 2d. To adjourn. 3d. To lay on the table. 4th. For the previous question. 5th. To postpone to a certain day, not beyond the probable duration of the session. 6th. To commit. 7th. To amend. 8th. To indefinitely postpone.

17. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, even in the absence of a quorum.

18. When a vote has passed, except on the previous question, or on motion to lay on the table, or to take from the table, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the majority to move for a reconsideration thereof on the same day, or within one hour after reading the journal on the succeeding day, and such motion, if made on the same day, shall be placed first on the orders of the day, for the day succeeding that on which it is made; unless the mover desires present consideration; but if first moved on such succeeding day, it shall be forthwith considered; and when a motion for reconsideration is decided, that decision shall not be reconsidered, and no question be twice reconsidered. Provided, however, that a motion to reconsider a vote, upon any incidental or subsidiary question, shall not remove the main subject under consideration from the house, but shall be considered at the time when it is made.

19. No bill or joint resolution of this house shall be sent to the senate (unless by special order of the house,) until the time allowed for the last preceding rule for reconsideration shall have passed.

20. The previous question shall be in the following form: "Shall the main question be now put?" If demanded by a vote of a majority of the members present, its effect shall be to cut off all debate and bring the house to a direct vote, first upon the pending amendments, if there are any, in their order, and then on the main question, but the mover of the question, or the chairman of the committee having charge of the bill or resolution, shall have the right to close the debate, after the call of the previous question has been sustained, for not more than fifteen minutes.

The house shall then proceed with the business upon which it was engaged when the message was received.

5. The call of counties in alphabetical order for bills, resolutions, memorials and petitions. If in any one day the call has not been completed by the hour of 12 m., the speaker shall begin on the next day, where he left off the preceding day.

1. Reports of standing committees, for bills which they have reported favorably which shall be forthwith read by their titles a second time and entered on the calendar in the order in which they were read a second time. In the call of committees the speaker shall call them in their order. 2. Executive messages shall have priority over other business, and as soon as received they shall be read by the clerk, and a proper disposition be made of them; and the house shall thereupon proceed with the business engaged in when interrupted by the executive message.

Such call shall only be in order on any day, immediately after the call of the standing committee which acted on said bill.

31. Upon the introduction of any bill, or when senate bills are first acted on, the same shall be read by its title; unless the reading be called for by some member when it shall be read at length, and upon such reading at length, or by its title, the bill so read shall be referred to a committee without a vote being taken, unless objected to, and in that event the question of reference shall be put to the house; and no bill shall be ordered to a second reading till reported back from a committee.

32. Bills, motions and reports may be committed or recommitted at the pleasure of the house.

33. Every bill shall, on its first reading, be committed to a standing committee, a select committee, or committee of the whole house; but commitment to one shall not preclude the commitment to either of the others, and on recommitment shall be open to amendment.

39. Upon a bill being committed to a committee of the whole house, the same shall be first read throughout by the clerk, and then again be read and debated by clauses, leaving the preamble to be the last considered. 40. On all questions of filling blanks, the largest sum and most remote day shall first be put.

41. Whenever it shall be necessary for a communication to be made from the house of representatives to the senate, it shall be under the signature of the clerk.

42. No committee shall sit during the sitting of the house without special leave.

44. After a vote has been ordered upon any question no member shall be permitted to explain his vote without leave of the house.

50. The speaker, shall, whenever he deems it necessary for the speedy dispatch of business, order the Calendar printed for the use of members.

51. When the Chairman of a committee is sick or absent, the member whose name appears second on the committee shall, during the absence of the Chairman become Chairman, and have power to call together the committee for consideration of bills.

52. None of the foregoing rules shall be rescinded, without one day's notice of the motion thereof being given; and a violation of either of them may be punished by such censure as a majority of the House may direct.

53. The tabling of an amendment or subsidiary motion, shall not have the effect of carrying with it the original bill or proposition.

54. That the rules of the House shall not be suspended, except by a four-fifth's vote of every member present, provided a quorum must vote.

55. No member shall speak more than twice to any question, nor more than ten minutes at any time, except that the mover of a question, or the chairman of a committee proposing the question, may speak in reply for not more than ten minutes, after all desiring to speak shall have spoken.

56. When a bill is reported favorably to the House, and a minority report accompanies the favorable report, the minority report shall be considered an amendment, and the bill shall be read a second time; and said bill and minority report shall be placed on the Calendar and be considered on the third reading of the bill.

57. The lobby or floor of the House shall be kept clear of all persons who are not entitled to the freedom thereof; and the persons entitled to such freedom of the hall shall be as follows, viz: (1) All the members of the Sénate as well as the officials of that body while acting in their service; (2) All former members of either house of the General Assembly; (3) All judges of

And it shall be the duty of the door-keeper and his assistants to enforce this rule under all circumstances.

Mr. Rabb offered the following amendment to rule 30 :

When a committee has decided adversely to any bill or resolution, such action being reported to the house, said bill or resolution together with the report of the committee, shall forthwith be turned over to the clerk who shall note the unfavorable report on the docket or register of bills. Any member may call for any such bill under adverse report when the same may by leave of the house be read by its title a second time and placed on the calendar. Such call shall only be in order on any day immediately after the call of the standing committee which acted on said bill.

J. K. JACKSON,

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR,

Montgomery, Alabama, November 17th, '94.

To the General Assembly:

I transmit herewith copy of a letter from Hon. W. W. Dudfield, superintendent of the U. S. coast and geodetic survey, and of a proposed act to facilitate the survey's claim for damages which may arise thereunder.

The useful purpose which the survey will accomplish as well as comity towards the United States, will, I am sure, induce you to enact the desired legislation on the subject.

THOS. G. JONES.

UNITED STATES COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.

Washington, D. C., November 1st, 1894.

To His Excellency, The Governor of Alabama, Montgomery, Alabama:

Sir:

I have the honor to inform you that the triangulation across the state of Alabama and other surveys along the coast are being executed by the coast and geodetic survey under authority of the laws of the United States, and that in the absence of any state law the officers engaged in the work have some difficulty at times in entering upon private lands and in the settlement of small damages occasionally arising from the cutting of a few trees required in opening lines of sight, the erection of necessary signals and the permanent marking of the points determined. I have therefore respectfully to request that you will present to the legislature and recommend the passage of a law similar to that already passed in many states, giving the right of entry and defining the mode of settling the amount of damages to be paid in case of disagreement between client and the office of survey in regard to the extent of the injury which may unavoidably be committed during the progress of the work.

Herewith I enclose a copy of the proposed law which has been made general so as to apply to all surveys made under the authority of the United States.

—signed—

Respectfully,
W. W. DUFFIELD,
Superintendent.

On motion the governor's message was referred to the judiciary committee.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR,

Montgomery, Nov. 17, 1894.

To the General Assembly:

On the 31st of March, 1894, Mr. T. C. Bingham, in behalf of his father, the late Arthur Bingham, presented to me as ex-officio debt commissioner, 47 bonds for exchange.

Of these bonds three are known as sterling bonds for 225 pounds each, issued under act of February 17th, 1870, and due 1st of June, 1890. Ten (10) bonds for $1,000 each, issued under act February 19th, 1872, and due May 1st, 1892; and 34 are bonds for $1,000 each, issued under act February 25th, 1873, and due 1st of March, 1893.

Mr. Arthur Bingham was at that time confined to his bed by what proved to be his last illness, and his condition was such that he could not transact business or make any statement about the matter.

He was treasurer of the state from the 13th of July, 1868, to December, 1870, and he was succeeded by Treasurer Grant, Bingham in turn succeeding Grant in 1872, and served as treasurer until the early part of December, 1874, when he was succeeded by Daniel Crawford.

The commissioners to adjust the state's indebtedness, in a report dated January 24th, 1876, referred to the lack of records showing the number of bonds issued. They say, among other things, that, "there are bonds in the office of the treasurer, signed and countersigned, as required by law, which mature in 1883, 1886, 1890 and 1892." "These bonds we presume were prepared for the purpose of extending a part of the ante-bellum bonds; but if so, they have not been called by the holders of the old bonds."

Arthur Bingham was indicted in 1875 in two or three cases on the charge of embezzlement. The indictments and docket show the nature of these charges, which do not cover any of the bonds now in question, but related to payments on account of the A. & M. College and other matters. On the trial of the main case Bingham was acquitted by the jury. The state was represented by Attorney General Sanford, Ex-Gov. Watts and Solicitor Fred S. Ferguson; Mr. Bingham was represented by Hon. John A. Elmore, Hon. Saml. F. Rice and Hon. W. L. Bragg. Capt. Bragg wrote a letter before his death, which is now before me, in which he states that "the jury were all Democrats, and some of them particularly strong Democrats, while Mr. Bingham was a Republican. There was a strong prejudice against Bingham in this case, confined generally to the Democratic party, while the Republican party did not believe him guilty." The letter proceeds, "after the verdict in the strongest case, the counsel for the State nol prossed the other cases against Bingham of their own accord, as they were satisfied no conviction could be had. About the same time as the institution of these criminal proceedings a civil suit was commenced against Bingham in the city court of Montgomery, and another civil suit was also commenced against him and the sureties on his official bond.

It is alleged a great many breeches of his official bond as Treasurer and among other transactions concerning the items upon which the indictment was founded. In these suits the same counsel represented the State and the defendant. The civil suits remained on the docket several years, each side endeavoring to get a trial; but on account of absent witnesses it was not brought to trial, and finally it was agreed that "as in as much as "the dispute involved long matters of accounts, running "through Bingham's entire administration" from 1868 to the fall of 1874 and was not, therefore, a "proper "matter for a jury that it be referred to arbitrators." The arbitrators were Hon. Elmore J. Fitzpatrick, Geo. F. Moore, Esq., and W. T. Hatchett. A great deal of evidence was offered on both sides, and "it was "tried before the arbitrators purely upon the merits. "The investigation involved a period from 1868 to the "fall of 1874, embracing many millions of dollars." The arbitrators, after considering all the evidence, brought in the award that Bingham owed the State twelve or thirteen hundred dollars; "and it was shown by the evidence and conceded on all sides that this arose from a "mistake in his accounts, made by his clerk, and of "which he was wholly unconscious, and was purely constructive and technical default." The amount of the award was afterwards paid to the State. Arbitrator Fitzpatrick, in a letter March 5th, 1884, declares that the arbitrators were satisfied that Bingham, "had not been "guilty of any corrupt conduct or intent and that his "liabilities arose from errors in his accounts as Treasurer, and the errors did not appear to be intentional or "known to Mr. Bingham until long after they had occurred. Arbitrator Geo. F. Moore concurs substantially in this statement. Ex-Gov. Watts, one of the attorneys of the State, agreed that "there was nothing criminal in "the facts disclosed before the court or before the arbitrators," but that, "his accounts had been loosely kept, "and while there were errors they were so explained as to exonerate him from any moral culpability." The arbitration was finally brought to a close and made the judgment of the court on the 19th December, 1879.

The unfavorable impression of the indictment and civil suits having been removed, the next question was why the presentation was so long delayed; though the statute under which the governor acts does not make delay a bar. The explanation is, that it was supposed these bonds were stolen, as a number of valuable papers and deeds were stolen from the residence of Mr. Bingham on the 3rd of July 1885, and a prosecution was commenced against Dean Wilson, who was acquitted in the city court of Talladega county, and the bonds which could not be found were supposed to have been stolen, until they were discovered in searching for some old papers, and, shortly afterwards, they were presented to me for exchange.

Among the papers is a written statement from Mr. Bingham to the debt commissioners accounting for the bonds which came into his possession of the million issue and the million and a half issue. Among the receipts given by the debt commissioners to Daniel Crawford, treasurer, is one showing the number of bonds that Mr. Crawford had on hand which he had received from Mr. Bingham. It appears from this receipt that among the bonds surrendered to the commission were a number of bonds of the same issue, but not of the same number as those now presented by Bingham for exchange. Examiner Lapsley made a report on the 16th of July, 1883 to Gov. O'Neal, of the examination of the accounts of the former agents, Lehman Durr & Co: It appears from this report and Bingham's statement that all of the issue of the million dollars of bonds under Act February 19th, 1872, were fully accounted for; and it appears from Bingham's statement and the action that the debt commissioners took upon it, and the efforts that were made to charge him with civil liability which did not include any bonds which he failed to turn over, that he was not considered or held responsible for the over issue of thirty-eight thousand dollars in the amount of bonds under the Act of February 19th, 1872, and February 25th, 1873.

The examiner of public accounts and I have made thorough investigation as to these bonds, and of all records accessible which would throw light on the subject.

As to five of the bonds presented I have not the slightest doubt and will exchange them. Mr. Bingham bought them from the late Virgil S. Murphy, whose receipt is produced, and the records show that Murphy had bonds of the state. As to the other forty-two bonds I would have no hesitation, but for the unfavorable presumption created by the facts above recited, which I think have been fully overthrown. Desiring to avoid injustice to a dead man, and being unwilling to evade responsibility by leaving this matter to my successor, I now advise you that unless otherwise advised by the general assembly I will make the exchange of the 42 bonds. It seems to me however that in view of the circumstances and the importance of the matter that I should give the general assembly an opportunity to make known its wishes in the premises before my retirement from office.

THOS. G. JONES.

On motion the above message was referred to the committee on ways and means.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR, }
MONTGOMERY, ALA., November 24th, 1894. }

To the General Assembly:

You have been advised in the biennial message of the negotiations made with the New York Security and Trust Company to protect the credit of the State, and to provide funds to meet warrants drawn on the appropriations already made for the current expenses of the government between the close of the last fiscal year and the first of January, next, including the January instalment of interest on the public debt. To accomplish this, I made a loan of one hundred thousand dollars on the first of October, 1894, giving the note of the State therefor, as authorized by statute. I also contracted with the Trust Company to take a transfer of $50,000 of warrants on the 15th October, 1894; also to take a transfer of $100,000 more of warrants on the 1st November, 1894; also to take a transfer of warrants and hold interest coupons together to the amount of $250,000 on the 1st January, 1895. It was agreed to discharge these obligations, as follows:

To pay $50,000 of the transferred warrants on the 20th January, 1895; pay note of $100,000 on the 20th February, 1895; pay $50,000 of transferred warrants on 20th March, 1895; pay $150,000 of transferred warrants and interest coupons on the 20th April, 1895, and pay $150,000 of interest coupons on the 20th of May, 1895.

The taxes for the present calendar year, 1894, the bulk of which will begin to reach the treasury early in 1895, will put the treasury in funds to meet all these demands.

Pursuing the mode adopted in former fiscal years in dealing with these deficits, for which sub-division 31 of the general appropriation act provided the means, I agreed, for the state, to pay 6% interest per annum for this loan, and upon the amount used in taking up the warrants and coupons. The amount of the present appropriation expires on the 31st of December. It will, therefore be necessary for you to make further appropriations therefor. As the first instalment of this interest is payable at a date at which you may not be in session, or if in session, too close to enable you to make provision for its payment before it falls due, I recommend that the appropriation be made now, instead of waiting until after the recess. The interest which the state will pay under this arrangement, including the exchange, will be $12,383.36.

It is perhaps needless to remark that while the amount arranged for is considerably larger than the deficit at the end of the last fiscal year, it is due to the fact that on the first day of January, 1895, there are large demands, including the semi-annual interest. In former years, there was a surplus in the treasury out of which such payments could be made, while waiting the collection of the calendar year's taxes, out of which the appropriations were payable. As there is now no surplus in the treasury, and as these payments are for obligations to be met out of the taxes of the calendar year, 1894, the bulk of which cannot be collected and reach the treasury until after the first of January, 1895, it is necessary to make the provision herein suggested.

THOS. G. JONES, Governor.

On motion the above message was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Mr. Forman moved to print 150 copies of the message, but on motion of Mr. Knight the motion was tabled.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

STATE OF ALABAMA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
 OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR, }
 MONTGOMERY, November 24th, '94. }

To the General Assembly:

On the first of October, 1892, a band of unknown men the night time invaded the residence of William Philyaw, in the county of Conecuh, and beat him, his wife and two children under circumstances of peculiar atrocity. Philyaw's collar bone was broken, and Mrs. Philyaw's right arm was broken and she received other serious wounds. The beating was done in pursuance of a conspiracy to punish Philyaw for the exercise of his political opinions and rights and at a time of intense political excitement, and being, perhaps, the forerunner of other outrages of a like kind, I offered the highest statutory reward for the arrest and delivery to the sheriff of the guilty parties. The proclamation recited that the criminals invaded the home of Philyaw and did beat and maim him, did also beat and maim his wife and beat and whip their children. It did not escape me that the governor had no authority to offer a reward for the conviction of unknown parties in misdemeanor cases, hence the word maim was used.

The word maimed, used in the proclamation, has a well defined significance, both in criminal law and in common acceptance, and is equivalent to depriving a person of such parts of his body as to render him less able to defend himself or disabling him so as to make him less fit for fighting, etc. In other words, the rewards were offered for the offense of mayhem, which is a felony.

Learning that the parties were known the reward was revoked, but Bob Rushton, John Kyser and Pomfrey Booker had been arrested and committed to jail before the revocation of the reward. They were afterwards convicted of simple assault and battery with a rail or stick, upon an indictment which charged that offense.

On presentation of the claim for twelve hundred dollars for the reward of the three persons so convicted, I did not allow it, not only for the reason that the appropriation for that year had been exhausted, but for the further reason that the parties had not been convicted of a felony. It was suggested to the claimant, W. L. Stallworth, however, to make his claims to the general assembly, and I now present a copy of the proclamation, the sheriff's receipt for the prisoners, a copy of the indictment, with the certificate of the clerk as to the conviction of the parties and a statement from Stevens, who was then solicitor of the circuit.

I do not think the state is bound for the twelve hundred dollars reward, but I think it would be equitable and just to make a reasonable compensation to Mr. Stallworth, and recommend legislation accordingly.

THOS. G. JONES, Governor.

On motion the above message was referred to the judiciary committee.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF ALABAMA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
 OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR, }
 MONTGOMERY, November 28th, 1894. }

To the General Assembly:

The last general assembly appropriated fifty thousand dollars for the expenses of the legislative session, but nearly all of that amount was properly paid out before it adjourned sine die. When it adjourned sine die, members presented certificates for per diem and mileage, which required the sum of $1,163.20 in excess of the appropriation to pay those claims. It was too late then to have an act passed, which would not have involved an extra session of the general assembly. All these claims are authorized by law, had to be paid and constituted just charges against the state. The auditor, rather than put the members and others to the inconvenience of waiting for their money, paid these claims. I think his action, under the circumstances, was proper and ought to be approved by the general assembly, and I therefore recommend that an act be passed, ratifying his acts in the premises.

THOS. G. JONES.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF ALABAMA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
 OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR, }
 MONTGOMERY, November 28th, 1894. }

To the General Assembly:

On the 11th October, 1894, the sheriff of Macon county informed the superintendent of convicts that one McKenzie, a prisoner, who had just been convicted and sentenced, was in danger of mob violence, and requested that a special messenger be sent to convey him to the penitentiary, in accordance with the sentence of the court. If the prisoner had not already been sentenced, and therefore required at once to be sent to the penitentiary, I should have directed the sheriff to summon a posse and defend the jail, and not to give countenance to mob violence by running the prisoner off for safety. As the law required the prisoner to be taken at once to the penitentiary, and there was no authority for retaining him in the jail, I wired the sheriff to send him to Montgomery at once under a strong guard, without waiting for the superintendent of convicts, who had no man available to send on so short a notice. I also directed the sheriff to summon a posse, and protect the prisoner at all hazards. The sheriff deemed it advisable to come himself, and bring a guard of nine men, as he was apprehensive of interruption by a mob after taking the train. His total expenses were $73.22, and as there is no fund from which this can be paid, I recommend a special appropriation to reimburse the sheriff.

THOS. G. JONES.

The foregoing messages from the governor were referred to the committee on appropriations.

INAUGURATION OF THE GOVERNOR.

At 11:30 a. m., the house took an informal recess, and at 11:55 a. m. was called to order again and proceeded to the front steps of the capitol, with the senate, to witness the inauguration of Wm C. Oates, as governor of Alabama. Pursuant to the program heretofore arranged the two houses of the General Assembly convened on the steps fronting the capitol and was called to order by the president of the senate.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Eager of the city.

Governor Jones introduced the Governor-elect as follows.

"The legislative, executive and judicial branches of the state government and this vast concourse of people mingle together for the time being on this historic spot, to testify in befitting manner to the significance and solemnity of the transfer, in obedience to the will of a free people, of the executive power of a great state from one chief magistrats to another. In laying down the exalted trust which has fallen to my lot, I but voice the general gratification of the people in expressing my own feelings, that the great office falls upon the broad shoulders of a man who has never hesitated to make any sacrifice for country or conviction, and whose name is a synonym of honesty and political courage. As he takes up the burden I am about to lay down, I reverently invoke for him the considerate and just judgment of all patriotic people, and the favor of an All-wise God that he may so administer his trust as to bring lasting peace to the people, and that all his acts may redound to the welfare and the glory of our loved Alabama.

"My countrymen, I have the honor to introduce to you the Governor-elect of Alabama."

The Governor-elect, William C. Oates, then delivered the following inaugural address:

Gentlemen of the General Assembly and Fellow-Citizens of Alabama:

Deeply impressed by the solemnities of the occasion, I fully realize the measure of confidence reposed in me by the people. I now dedicate myself to their service, with due appreciation of the responsibilities I assume, under the sanction of a solemn oath. In addition to its obligation, the gratitude I feel will stimulate me to the greatest efforts of which I am capable in the service of the state and the enhancement of the best interests of all our people.

It has been claimed that frauds were committed in the last August election. I have no knowledge whatever of any, and for the good name of our state regret that such a charge has been made. I proclaimed in my speeches during the campaign that I was in favor of fair elections, and so indeed I am. Some irregularities may have intervened; some frauds may have been committed, but if so they are chargeable alike to the supporters of each candidate, differing only in locality and degree. I am satisfied beyond doubt that I am legally elected by a large majority, or I would not accept the office; I would never assume the role of a usurper. In the absence of a law providing for a contest, and I regret that there is not one, the General Assembly, under the Constitution must count the votes and determine the result. You have done that and declared that I am legally elected Governor, and hence I will be Governor of our State during the term prescribed by the Constitution.

No allegation of fraud in any of our State elections was ever made until the carpet-baggers and their hordo of hiring natives introduced it for the most corrupt and partisan purposes. They so construed the election law of 1868, that notwithstanding we had a majority of the legal voters, we had to submit forever to the foul domination of ignorance and corruption, or boat them at their own game, and save to our people their homes from the grasp of the tax-gatherer, secure safety to our families, protection to our fair women, education to our children, to revive prosperity and rescue the credit of our beloved State from bankruptcy and dishonor. If in some localities our people at that time resorted to methods inconsistent with the Constitution and our laws as they now are the better to accomplish these results and save themselves from the awful gulf of despair which yawned before them, the recording angel will shed no tear in blotting these acts from the record of final account. Every manly and patriotic heart throughout the length and breadth of the Union, when acquainted with the facts of those days must say, "I blame thee not, my brother, for the preservation of the purity of your altars, your hearthstones and your civilization from the foul desecration which threatened them."

If there were frauds in the last August election, in some of the counties of the black belt, as charged by the defeated candidate, they are of no consequence, for after throwing out every vote to which any reasonable man could possibly object, and admitting the entire vote returned for my competitor, as legal, which I do not, and my majority would then be a large one.

If there were any irregularities, or false counts returned in favor of my election it was attributable to an apprehension of the white people of those counties that they might, in the event of the election of my competitor, be again subjected to flagrant wrongs and humiliations similar to those they endured from 1867 to 1875.

The conduct of our opponents in quitting their party for the sake of official spoils; the gratification of a vaulting ambition without regard to character or qualification has constituted the greatest obstruction to securing perfectly fair elections; and peace and quietude have been denied to the people of the State by the ruthless ambition of one man.

It is impossible to make a law which of itself will ac-comply with this object, if men see proper to evade it, unless it be the viva voce system of voting, which cannot be adopted without a change in our Constitution.

The people of our State are in favor of fair elections.

Our laws upon the subject are honest and as well executed as they are in a majority of the States of the Union; but experience may show that they are in need of further amendment.

Gentlemen, look at the condition of our State: a certain class of our voters are more intelligent than they were twenty years ago and hence less dangerous; the federal election law has been repealed and now the honesty and fairness of all elections depend upon State regulation.

If our law is defective, amend it, and make it wise, just and fair, unawed and uninfluenced by the clamors, false accusations or threats of any faction or party. Do your duty and let the consequences take care of themselves.

Our people have experienced financial stringency, shrinkage in values and depressed markets for the past two or three years, which have brought some distress and dissatisfaction to them, yet we have much for which to be thankful.

An honest and economical Federal administration, though handicapped by hard conditions and laws of an adverse party has done much toward improvement by lightening the burdens of the people, giving them wider markets for their products, and causing the money of the country to again seek its natural channels of circulation. Much has been done for the relief of the country from oppressive laws and hard conditions. Wool, flax, hemp, salt, copper, grain sacks, bagging and ties for cotton have been placed upon the free list, and the cost of living greatly lessened by the reduction of taxation, whose burdens have been made to reach the rich man's surplus as well as the poor man's necessities. All money has been made equally taxable which is an additional source of revenue to the States. Expenditures by the Federal government have been reduced many millions of dollars and unnecessary offices have been abolished.

In addition, let us be thankful to Him from whom all good gifts are received for the abundant-crops our farmers have harvested the present year, though, unfortunately for them, the great staple, cotton, is selling at a low figure. But that cannot be avoided while such a vast crop is made. The great law of supply and demand will not down at any man's bidding. But let us hope for better times at an early date and we will not be disappointed. They will come, not as a result of the late elections, but because of the work of the present Congress and that the period of depression has about run its course.

As Alabamians, we have much to stimulate our pride. Of forty-four States in the Union, ours is the seventeenth in population, yet it is only in the seventy-fifth year of its Statehood, and the first white settlement was made in it but ninety years ago. We have a genial climate and a fertile soil; we produce over 800,000 bales of cotton a year, which is about one-ninth of all produced in the United States.

Our forests are extensive—in the southern counties the yellow pine, in the western, eastern and northern portions of the State nearly every variety of timber exists in almost exhaustless quantities. In many places marble and the finest building stone abound.

Our mineral wealth is almost incomprehensible. Vast coal fields with mountains of iron ore and limestone for fluxing lie in close proximity, and if fully developed would produce pig iron enough to supply a large part of the demand of the world. The Warrior, Cahaba and Coosa coal fields contain coal enough to supply the world for 250 years, and when in condition for use is worth, at the mines, one hundred and fifty billion dollars, or 300 times as much as all the rest of the property in the State combined. Is there any Alabamian who is not proud of our State and its wonderful resources?

At least two methods of further developing the wealth of the State claim immediate attention. First, the production of steel, which is but in its incipiency; second, the establishment of cotton factories in every town and village of the State. These would diversify industries and produce incalculable wealth, and should be encouraged by our legislation. Great wealth is never obtained by the production of raw materials alone; it springs from the finished product.

With all these natural resources, and an industrious, intelligent and patriotic population with great capacity for the production of wealth, let your legislation, which should keep abreast with the progress of the age, be marked by justice and wisdom, and the future of our State is assured.

Let us implore the Democratic Congress at the present session to pass two more great acts: First, to reform our financial system, so as to have a uniform, safe, sound, elastic and abundant currency to meet the necessities of commerce and the business of the people; and, second, to construct at once the Nicaragua Canal, which would give life and growth to all the seaport towns of the Gulf and furnish a ready market for all our vast mineral and other productions. With these accomplished all the world would soon realize that Alabama is in fact what she is now alphabetically—first in the role of the great States of the Union.

The growth of our State in population and civilization increases its necessity of revenue. Our institutions for the insane, deaf, dumb and blind require an increase in capacity for accommodation as the number who should be cared for annually increases; and our public schools should, as soon as practicable, receive additional appropriations.

A misapprehension of your predecessors, some years ago, in reducing the rate of taxation, just as the shrinkage in the values of property began, has caused a great deficiency in the State's revenues, which calls loudly upon you, gentlemen, for the remedy. The responsibility is upon you, but I am willing to share it, and will aid you to the best of my ability.

While economy shall always be rigidly, but sensibly practiced, yet it is impossible for a State to do justice to its people in discharging the great trust committed to its officials upon a scant and insufficient revenue. We must not, however, over-burden our people by heavy taxes, but so amend and improve our methods of raising revenue that a sufficiently large amount can be obtained to pay the existing deficiency and to meet the growing demands on the Treasury, without increasing to any great extent the rate which the law now fixes. Five and a half mills, recommended by my honorable predecessor, is not above the average rate laid by the different States of the Union, and the honor, the credit and the good name of our State must be maintained at any cost.

Gentlemen, hard as the times are, and scarce as money is among us, let us abandon the old cheese-paring policy of finance and launch the ship of State upon the broader sea of enterprise, and as the hard times vanish, as they surely will, we will come safely into port with colors flying, band playing and firing salutes to the prosperity and grandeur of our State.

I am apprehensive that our present convict system will involve the people of the State in further taxation for its support. Though I find no fault with its management under the existing law, there must be a change of policy. Convicts should be treated with humanity, but our system of punishments should be self-sustaining, and not burdensome to the State.

My honorable predecessor, whose administration has been stormy but remarkably successful, has laid before you, gentlemen of the General Assembly, his recommendations, which are able, exhaustive and entitled to grave considerations, and I will not, on this occasion, attempt any additions, but at an early date will submit to you such further recommendations as may seem to me useful in your deliberations.

For myself and all the law-abiding people of Alabama, I wish to return thanks to the retiring Governor for the faithful, able and patriotic manner in which he has discharged every duty pertaining to his high office, and also to his faithful official assistants, and our patriotic and gallant State troops for the preservation of law and order and driving anarchy from our borders, it is to be hoped never to return.

And now, gentlemen of the General Assembly, with an invocation of wisdom, patriotism and harmony in your work of legislation for the good of our beloved State and her noble people, and with assurances of my hearty co-operation, I am ready to take the oath of office.

OATH OF OFFICE.

The oath of office prescribed by law was then administered to the Governor-elect Wm. C. Oates by the chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama, Hon. Robert C. Brickell.

The president of the senate then announced that the purpose of the joint convention was accomplished and the joint convention was dissolved.

The house of representatives then returned to the hall of the house.

Having arrived in the hall, on motion, the house adjourned until 10 a. m. to-morrow.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF ALABAMA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR,
MONTGOMERY, Dec. 5th, 1894. }

Mr. Speaker:

By direction of the governor I have the honor to hand you, herewith, a message in writing.

Very respectfully,

HARVEY E. JONES,
Private Secretary.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

In accordance with my official duty to advise you from time to time of whatever legislation I deem expedient for the general welfare of the people of the state, I submit the following for your consideration:

The deficiency of the revenue to meet the absolute necessities of the state I hope will be promptly provided for. Our state affairs are now being administered upon borrowed money at the rate of six per cent. interest per annum. True economy and public credit alike demand a change as soon as practicable. The revenue of the state should fully meet its necessities. Our credit has always—even in the dark days of the war—been our pride. For twenty years we have maintained it at the high standard it reached before reconstruction broke it down. We should never allow it to be impaired.

My immediate predecessor in his biennial message clearly explained how this deficiency originated, and recommended a very moderate increase in the tax rate for the purpose of meeting it. I fully concur in the recommendation but it will not of itself raise a sufficient sum. I advise that an increase of half a mill be made at once before the beginning of the new tax year, but with a provision authorizing the governor to suspend its operation whenever, in his opinion, a sufficient revenue will be obtained without it.

I urge upon your attention the immediate consideration of the revision and improvement of the methods of assessment of taxes in every respect necessary to prevent escape of property therefrom which is subject to taxation. The masses of the people, men of moderate means and the farmers of the State generally list their property for taxation and do not try to escape therefrom, but many shrewd business men, traders and speculators, in obedience to their selfish interest and aided by an elastic conscience, evade the assessment of a part of their taxable property, concealing or hiding it from the assessor. To allow this to continue is utterly unfair to the honest tax-payer. Men of property, those doing a large business, the corporations and all classes should be required in every case to pay their due share of taxes to support the state government, To allow them to escape, to any considerable extent, leaves to the legislature no means of raising sufficient revenue except to increase the tax rate, which is unfair and an additional burden to the honest tax-payer. There is a great and unjust discrimination in taxable values, as assessed, which calls aloud for correction by some process of equalization. I am aware that it is difficult of accomplishment, yet it is the duty of the general assembly to try the experiment. Under-valuation in assessment is quite common. The cash value of the property is the true criterion, and when assessed at figures far below this standard, there should be some means of correction. I suggest as a practicable and just method that all lands be classified as to valuation and be assessed accordingly. There should be at least five or more grades, and none less than one dollar per acre and the highest in no case above the cash value of the land.

Every tax-payer who gives in his property at a fair valuation has a right to demand that all other tax-payers be compelled to pay upon their property in like manner. Equality of burdens and benefits should characterize the course of every government towards its people.

If no property is allowed to escape taxation, and it be assessed at anything approximating its true value, the state will have sufficient revenue without any increase in the rate of taxation. The general assembly owes it to the people to reform our tax laws and obtain a sufficiently large revenue from that source, which I believe is perfectly practicable. I do not hesitate to recommend, as one change in that direction, a different method of selecting the tax assessors from that now provided: A state commission appointed by the governor with the power to classify real estate and regulate assessments and supervise the same throughout the state; and a county board composed of the assessor, who should be chosen by the court of county commissioners, and one to be appointed by the governor, or the state board of assessors, with an appeal to the said state board in case of division or disagreement between them, and in all other cases in which any tax-payer is aggrieved, would be the best solution of the trouble we now have in the regulation of assessments and equalization of tax values. The cost of such commissions would be insignificant in comparison with the good they would accomplish.

It seems to me that a higher license might be required for the privilege of selling liquors, both wholesale and retail, as well as an ad valorem tax per keg and per barrel without becoming burdensome or exorbitant. This would considerably increase the revenue derivable from that source. These are luxuries and not a necessity, and hence proper subjects of heavy taxation.

Native wines should be exempt from special license, and the owners only be required to pay on an ad valorem valuation—as on other property. Our state is well adapted to the growth of nearly every variety of grapes, and hence can be made a wine producing country; and every legitimate industry is an addition to the wealth of the state. The more the people become accustomed to the use of native wines, the less intoxicating liquors will be consumed, and thus will the health and morals of the people be improved and happiness be brought to many homes whose peacefulness is frequently disturbed by beastly intoxication. High license and strict regulation of the sale of intoxicants and the encouragement of wine making are worth more to society than prohibition. The latter is intended for a good purpose, but a considerable percentage of the people will drink some kind of liquor, and when they can't buy it they will make it. My opinion is that prohibition in this way actually encourages much illicit distilling, and hence a double violation of law, both state and federal. Liquors are clandestinely brought within the prohibited district, especially when it embraces a town or village, in large quantities, sold in violation of the prohibitory act and the license law, and thus the state loses its revenue, a considerable amount of doubly illegal drunkenness ensues and the cause of sobriety makes but little progress.

A higher license may well be exacted on all gaming tables, and the sale of cigarettes—an enemy to health—and trashy yellow-backed fiction and immoral books, if licensed at all, should be placed at a high figure, or their sale entirely prohibited.

A license fee on all corporations, foreign and domestic, should be required to be paid in proportion to the business done as nearly as can be ascertained.

Solvent credits are by law taxable. The existing law, however, leaves it to the discretion of the tax-payer to decide which of his credits, or debts due him, are solvent; if he has a doubt, nothing is paid, and thus many escape. In order that none of these may escape the payment of taxes, I recommend that a small stamp duty—varying according to the value of the paper evidencing the debt—be imposed as the most convenient and surest method of collection; and that no evidence of debt shall be collectible in any court unless the collector's stamp has been placed thereon and by him cancelled each tax year after the approval of the net. This, I am persuaded, would do no injustice to any one and would add largely to the revenue of the state.

The allowance of a deduction to the tax-payer of all his indebtedness opens the doors to fraud in many cases, and should be, if allowed at all, carefully guarded and clearly defined.

I also suggest that a succession tax may well be imposed. In New York and several other states of the Union it has given general satisfaction. A person who has the good fortune to inherit a large, or considerable sum of money, is usually too happy to be offended at paying a reasonable tax upon it.

The necessities of the state for a large revenue, and the scarcity of money among the people on account of the low price of farm products, like an ill matched pair, have come together. The economy practiced by the state administrations in the past years has been cramped and narrow in many respects.

EXHIBITION OF OUR RESOURCES.

No appropriation has ever been made for the display of any of the great products and native wealth of our State, or industries of its people, at any of the grand exhibitions held in this country. Nothing of the kind was to be seen at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, which was the greatest ever held in the world's history. While nearly every other State in the Union had some display, however small, there was nothing on exhibition there to show that there was such a State as Alabama. Even a small expenditure, judiciously made, would have saved our people from mortification of their State pride.

In Atlanta, Ga., beginning September, 1895, there will be held for the period of three months "The Cotton States International Exposition," which will be of great magnitude and participated in by several foreign nations. I recommend that a provision be made for our State to have a creditable exhibit therein, which can be done at small cost, and which would be repaid ten fold by letting the people of other States and countries know the attractiveness of our State to capital and desirable immigration.

BATTLE FIELDS.

The blood of no troops from any State in the Union flowed more profusely, or freely, than did that of Alabama's in the great battles of Gettysburg and Chickamauga. These fields have been, by act of congress, made national parks, and provided with mixed commissions from both armies to mark the places with marble slabs where different commands fought and performed the greatest deeds of valor. The federal government gave us one commissioner for the battle field of Gettysburg in the person of the late lamented Gen. William H. Forney, and since his death W. M. Robbins, who was the major of the Fourth Alabama, has been appointed to the vacancy; but not a dollar has ever been appropriated by the General Assembly of Alabama to send any agent to point out, or mark the spots, or erect a monument, even of rude stone, where any of our heroes fought and fell and won immortality for the name of an Alabama soldier. I hope this matter will not escape your attention. If legislation is not deemed necessary authorizes the governor to meet the necessary expense out of the contingent fund and it will be attended to.

DISABLED CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS.

The small amount of taxes laid for the relief of the poor disabled confederate veterans raises in the aggregate something less than $130,000 per annum; it should be more. Perhaps the people are not able to pay a heavier tax, but the law for the distribution of the sum so raised should be amended. Some of these unfortunates are not physically able to travel to the county seat to make oath to their applications before the probate judge, as the law now requires, and such persons should be allowed to make oath to their respective claims before any officer authorized to administer the same, stating in the affidavit the inability of the affiant to go before the probate judge. Some of those whose claims have been allowed by that officer are perhaps unknown to him as entitled to the benefaction. I fully concur in the recommendation of Governor Jones on this subject. The law should authorize the governor, or probate judge, to name three confederate veterans as a county board of examiners to whom all applications should be referred, and such board after examining the same should return the papers to the probate judge with the recommendation of said board, or a majority of its members, favorably or unfavorably, as the case may be, and if the probate judge finds that the applicant thus recommended is within the provisions of the law his claim should be allowed and the person certified as entitled to share in the fund, and if the report is adverse to such claim it should be rejected. This would prevent the impositions which have been practiced, in some cases, under the law as it now stands. Old veterans would willingly serve upon such a board without any compensation. The consciousness that they were discharging a duty to their comrades, who are in a pitiable condition of helplessness and poverty, would be to them an ample reward for their trouble.

THE CONVICT SYSTEM.

I confess my want of familiarity with our system of managing criminal convicts. But from what I have been to learn, I am clearly of the opinion that they will, under the present arrangement, soon become a source of great expense to the State, which must not be permitted. They should be treated with humanity, and so worked as to surely pay all the expenses of their management. The county convicts should be so employed as to make them pay for the costs and expense of their conviction, and a just limit to hard labor for costs should be fixed so as to prevent abuse of it. The law should be so amended that when they are leased or hired out to pay the cost, etc. of their conviction, prompt payment should be made to the lessor according to contract. It has been suggested that the State lease coal lands from the University for a period of years, agreeing to pay that institution a reasonable royalty upon each ton of coal taken from its lands, and work a portion of the able-bodied State convicts in a mine to be opened thereon and sell the coal on State account. I think that the suggestion is well worthy of serious consideration and I therefore recommend that you investigate it thoroughly and determine upon its practicability. It is impossible to work convicts at any thing without bringing them in competition with free labor. The greater reason why they should not be concentrated in any given locality, as they have been under the lease system, is the detriment that results to society therefrom in that locality.

The plan of taking all the convicts from the mines and employing them upon the State farm is impracticable. Should the State buy machinery and put them to manufacturing the want of skill of the convicts to operate it would make that venture a failure.

I see no way of avoiding a heavy expense to the State except by re-releasing the greater part of the able-bodied convicts until the treasury is in a condition to try other experiments. It may be that the State would do well to buy some good mineral lands, or lease them from the University, and employ a limited number of convicts and thus make a fair experimental test of mining coal on State account. If it proves a success, as I believe it would, railroads would soon be constructed to the mines; the Warrior River, which is being improved by the United States government, would soon furnish cheap transportation for the coal to Mobile Bay; the University would derive from its great property a much needed revenue, which would, in a few years, make it one of the greatest seats of learning in the southern States, and if the scheme be successful, it would pour into the State treasury an amount of money to meet the proper demands upon it and greatly lighten the burdens of taxation upon our people. Gentlemen! it is, in my opinion, well worth trying. Investigate it, and ascertain its feasibility and its cost. That is easily done.

Our legislators hitherto have never had recourse to any system of financiering but that of cutting down salaries of officials, cheeseparing and saving a few dollars here and there.

Ours is a big State with vast mineral resources and only needs a fair chance to be one of the most progressive and prosperous in the Union. All this can be accomplished without any perceptible increase of burdens upon the honest taxpayer. We must not allow our sympathy for the criminal convicts to get the advantage of our judgment. Treat them humanly but so work them as not make their punishment a burden to honest and innocent people. It is for you to apply the proper remedy.

OUR JUDICIAL SYSTEM.

Our constitution declares that "the courts shall be open and that every person having any injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have a remedy by due process of law; and right and justice shall be administered without sale, denial or delay." Yet, it is a fact that under our present judicial system our judges are over-worked, the dockets of causes are crowded, and sessions of the court, by law, are held only twice a year, or once every six months, which is a traversity upon the provision of the constitution just quoted. A plaintiff may sue for his just demand, but owing to the crowded condition of the docket and the widely separated sessions of the court, it becomes impossible to have the case heard for twelve months, and sometimes for two years. This amounts in many cases to a denial of justice. The remedy for this evil, and the enormous jail fees the state has to pay, is a large increase in the number of our circuits and more frequent sessions of the court in each county. They should be held four times a year if the business requires it.

Section IV of Article VI, of the constitution makes necessary the vote of two-thirds of the members of each house of the general assembly to increase the number of circuits beyond eight, and that no circuit shall contain less than three nor more than twelve counties. We now have ten circuits, and the number should be increased to twenty, and but few circuits should contain more than three counties. This would enable the judges to dis-poss of the business of their courts "without denial or delay," and dispense with the necessity for local courts except in cities.

I also recommend that you insert a provision in the law that wherever a suit is brought upon a promissory note, or other instrument, not sounding in damages, that ten days after the service of process upon the defendant, if no plea be filed by him to the plaintiff's complaint setting forth a good defense supported by affidavit, that an office judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff for which execution should issue against the defendant as in other cases.

Unfortunately, lynchings, for crimes supposed to have been committed have been of too frequent occurrence within the State. It is your official duty, gentlemen, as well as mine, to do what we can to prevent it and cause the enforcement of the law. There are certain crimes of so outrageous a character that the good men of the neighborhood feel indignant and impatient at the law's delay. The fact that several months must elapse before the malfactor can be tried, his possible escape from jail, and the probable death, or removal of the witnesses beyond the jurisdiction, frequently cause them, when they feel certain of the guilt of the accused to take him out and kill him. I consider this a strong reason why you should increase the number of circuits and require the judges to hold their courts with double the frequency they hold them now. There would be there so little excuse for lynchings that I am persuaded that they would be of rare occurrence.

Many of the younger states, those admitted into the Union long since Alabama was, have judicial systems far superior to ours.

On the question of economy, we should not let the expenditure of a few dollars stand in the way of a complete and speedy administration of justice. But in fact, such a reform in our judicial system as I recommend will not be more, but less expensive than the present one.

With the increased number of circuit judges I recommend, there is no necessity for the continuance of the office of chancellor. That office should be abolished to take effect at the expiration of the present term of the incumbents, unless they can by law be assigned to the performance of circuit court duties which I am inclined to think can be done. Why retain a separate chancery system, when only three other states of the Union retain it? The constitution declares that the "general assembly" shall have the power to establish courts of chancery but is not compulsory and hence they may be abolished. They have no place in the judicial system of the United States; and in Great Britain, where the system of separate chancery courts originated, it was abolished by act of parliament more than twenty years ago.

A lawyer who is capable of discharging the duties of circuit judge is equally capable of deciding cases in equity. If the distinction between law and equity, which is theoretical, technical and useless, still be retained, it is an easy matter to keep a docket of equity causes in the circuit courts. The justices of the supreme court have to decide equity causes on appeal as well as those at common law. It requires no separate special training. Under our system the distinction between law and equity, the latter being defined as the "correction of that wherein the law, by reason of its universality, is deficient," should command less respect than the real object of our judicial system, which is to dispense justice in controversies between men, as to rights of property and to enforce good order and respect for society.

The salary of our chancellors, if the office be abolished will pay the salary of four additional circuit judges, and by having frequent sessions of the courts the dockets will be kept clear of criminal cases, the jails emptied of prisoners, and the saving of expence in this way will prove a source of profit, if the circuits be increased to twenty. The six additional salaries would aggregate $15,000 per annum. The expence of feeding prisoners last year was $105,000. The salaries would be saved four times over in the reduction of the jail fees; the officers would get their costs, the guiltless would be set free and the guilty promptly punished. The courts would then perform their proper functions and our state be given a business impetus in the judicial line. The respect of the people for the courts would be greatly increased by making them so much more useful than they are at present. They are now almost as much machines for the retardation and denial of justice as they are useful in its dispensation.

I also recommend that the judge of each circuit be authorized to appoint an official stenographic reporter, whose duty it shall be to take down the evidence and typewrite the same under his oath as an officer of the court in every case of felony and in every misdemeanor where the judge or counsel for the defendant deem it necessary; and that each reporter be paid a salary, not to exceed seventy-five dollars per month, during the time he is in attendance upon the court; and in every civil case in which the parties agree, the said reporter shall take the testimony, and shall be allowed a reasonable compensation therefor, to be taxed as costs. This would solve the difficulty of agreement between judge and lawyers upon bills of exception and add greater certainty and celerity to the proceedings of the courts.

It also seems to me that the summoning of a petit jury to try civil cases should be dispensed with, unless one of the parties to the suit demand it in advance of the session of the court. If no jury be demanded the judge would be the trier of fact as well as of law. No man's rights would, by such a statute, be in the slightest impaired and much cost of litigation would be avoided. Many other details pertaining to such a change of our judicial system will readily occur to you.

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS.

The frequent occurrence of homicides—even among people of the highest respectability—is mainly attributable to the evil and unnecessary practice of carrying concealed weapons. The present law, though well administered, seems to have but little restraint upon the practice. The only way to suppress it is to make the offense a felony punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than three years; and in no case should any one be allowed to carry concealed weapons, except when traveling, or setting out on a journey which will take him beyond the limits of the State, or when he has been threatened with and has good reason to apprehend an attack and carries the weapon for his defense in that particular case. If the law be thus amended a much less number of homicides will be committed than we now have. Our law very considerately and properly, allows a person when grossly insulted to strike with his fist in vindication of his honor. In such case no life is taken; but if either party be secretly armed with a deadly weapon, it is too often the case that a murder is committed. Let the penalty for a breach of the law be a terror to its violators and many valuable lives will be spared. A fine, which may be imposed without imprisonment, has but little restraint upon the evil practice which is now so common, that peaceable men, from a sense of insecurity, frequently carry weapons because they know that others go armed. Let every person carry concealed weapons on all occasions, denying the privilege to none, or protect peaceable citizens against it by making the law which prohibits it a terror to those who violate it. Civilization and the security of the people from lawless violence require it.

ELECTIONS.

Section 111 of Article IV of the Constitution provides: that "Senators and Representatives shall be elected by the qualified electors on the first Monday in August, 1876, and half of the Senators and all of the Representatives shall be elected every two years thereafter, unless the General Assembly shall change the time of holding elections. * * *

Section 5 of the act approved March 6th, 1876, provides for "the election of Governor and other State officers as well as members of the General Assembly on the first Monday of August in 1876 and every two years thereafter."

The reason why the convention and the General Assembly separated the State from the Federal elections is manifest, but as it no longer exists, I can see no good reason for continuing to keep them separate. Why should we have two elections in one year when one would suffice? The excitement and political agitation commences with the beginning of every other year and reaches a white heat by the first Monday in August. Then as soon as we elect a Governor and other State officers another campaign begins for members of Congress. In many States the evil of too frequent elections—disturbance of business, intense excitement and fermentation of discord consequent thereon—have been so keenly felt that the people have wisely provided, in their Constitutions for the election of Governor and other State officers only every four years. Two elections in one year is treating them to too much political excitement, and it also involves the counties in unnecessary expense.

As elections of members of Congress are fixed in all but three States for Tuesday after the first Monday in November every other year, and as that day has been fixed by Congress for all the States to choose presidential electors every fourth year, and as I believe it would be to the best interest of the people, and result in no wrong to any one, I most earnestly recommend that the August election be changed back to November.

A CONTEST LAW.

Our election law should be amended so as to provide for a contest of the election of governor and other state officers. The constitution provides: Article V, section IV, that, "Contested elections for governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer and attorney general shall be determined by both houses of the general assembly in such a manner as may be prescribed by law." And hence the only practicable way to provide for such a contest is to make a law similar to that of taking testimony in contested elections of congressmen. It should provide for a specific notice to be given of the grounds of contest, an answer to be filed, and then to have the testimony taken by a commission in each county to which the contest is extended, so that the testimony may be laid before the general assembly at the beginning of its session, and thus secure a speedy trial of the question and avoid expense and delay so far as practicable. In view of the brevity of the session as fixed by the constitution, for ordinary legislation, the law should make it the duty of the governor to call an extra session of the general assembly to determine such contest. The constitution contemplates such a law and I most earnestly recommend its enactment.

ELECTION LAW.

Your familiarity with the working of the election law enables you to judge as well as myself whether it needs amendment and what amendments thereto are necessary. If it is not fair and satisfactory to the people amend it and make it so. I am of the opinion that an amendment is necessary, giving each party who has a ticket to be voted for the right to nominate a marker, at each polling place, who should take an oath to mark only the name called by the illiterate voter and not to suggest or indicate to such voter, by word, sign, gesture or otherwise the name of any other person, and not to disclose the name voted for by any voter under heavy penalty.

It seems to be but fair that the officers whose duty it is to appoint the inspectors or managers of election, should allow each party, entitled to be represented, to nominate to said officials one of such inspectors to be appointed by them. These two amendments to the law would secure perfect fairness and should give satisfaction to all parties.

I also invite your attention to the bad features of registration in our election law. The time allowed is too brief, and it is unbending in its provisions. If a voter is necessarily absent from the state until the period for registration expires, or if he registers before election day and loses his certificate, he cannot vote. If he be confined to a bed of sickness until the period of registration has passed he cannot vote that year. The registration is in May; if the voter moves to another county, though he may reside therein three months as required by the constitution, before the November election he can not vote. It is therefore of doubtful constitutionality in this respect and should be amended.

A BANKING LAW.

The State Constitution Art. XIV, Sec. 15, declares that "no banks shall be established otherwise than under a general banking law, nor otherwise than upon a specie basis." Section 16. "All bills or notes issued as money shall be at all times redeemable in gold or silver, and no law shall be passed sanctioning, directly or indirectly, the suspension by any bank or banking company of specie payment."

So long as the ten per cent. tax imposed by congress, in the interest of national banks, is not repealed or modified, state banking is impossible. In the hope that there may be something of the kind accomplished during the present session of congress I advise that a banking law be passed. A good system of safe and sound state banks of issue, would give our people an abundance of home money, as good as greenbacks, at a lower rate of interest than it can now be obtained. A change of our constitution, as has been supposed, is unnecessary.

The law should provide for a deposit with the state treasurer of lawful money of the United States, or solvent bonds of the United States, state, counties or municipalities, readily convertible into gold or silver for the redemption of the notes of such bank, with power in the treasurer to so convert such securities at any time upon the failure of the bank of issue, on demand, to redeem its notes in specie as required by the constitution.

Such a banking law would secure the bill-holder and cause the bills of such banks to be at par in every state in the union.

INTEREST AND USURY.

The proper understanding of the running of interest embraces the larger part of the whole financial problem. A high rate of interest makes fortunes for states and individuals when it runs in their favor, and ruins them financially when it runs long or at a high rate against them. Our present legal rate of eight per cent. is a very fair one and is as much as money should be worth. If every business in our country would yield that rate annually on the capital invested the road to wealth would be plain and easily travelled.

Our usury laws are utterly inefficient and should be repealed in toto, or so changed as to carry out the purpose for which they were intended. They were enacted on the common law idea that monopoly is unlawful and that he who hath an abundance shall not take advantage of his necessitous neighbor for the loan or temporary use of his means. There is a prevalent idea in this country that a person should be allowed, by law, to sell the temporary use of his money, usually called a loan, for whatever a borrower may see proper to give. That rests upon the broad principle that the merchant may sell his goods for whatever price he can obtain, the farmer sell his produce in the same way. So, too, does the stock man obtain for his animals the highest price for which they will sell, and this is the rule throughout the commercial world in every business except in the use of money. In all the states of the Union and in every country there is a fixed legal rate for the use of money; conventional within specified limits, or at an unbonding and fixed rate. The reason is that money is the great medium of exchange or measure of values of everything else.

No one in this country can be compelled by law to loan his money to another. His freedom and his personal right to hoard his money, if he chooses, is thus recognized and protected. But the law-making power claims the right to prescribe rules and regulations as to the manner in which he may loan his money to others, if he sees proper, to engage in that business, because it is assumed that he may abuse the privilege if unrestrained. It is the right of every citizen to bear arms, but the legislature may prescribe regulations as to how he may do it, so as not to be detrimental to the peace of the state. Every person who has had much experience as a lender of money knows that it begets a disposition to be grasping and to make every dollar he can by the use of his money. Poor borrowers pay, or agree to pay, any rate of interest to obtain money, which brings instant relief, in the hope that their efforts and labor next year will be better remunerated than the last one was, and will enable them to pay out and start even once more. Their hopes are too sanguine, and in a large majority of cases, the poor fellows find themselves burdened by a heavier debt, by the addition of the high interest, and thus they begin another year. It is but a question of time, at most, before the money lender will own the entire possessions of the necessitous and improvident borrower who pays a high rate of interest.

I have tried to present both sides of the question fairly.

Whenever a contract is made in palpable violation of the law the courts should not be required to enforce it. The penalty under our law for taking usury is simply forfeiture of all the interest. It arms the debtor with a defence which will forfeit all the interest if he sees proper to make it. The rule with lenders and borrowers now is to make illegal contracts at least as to the interest. A conventional rate of interest should be provided for, and the taking of any more than it allows, or if the legal rate be adhered to, the penalty for its violation should be sufficiently great to secure its enforcement. It is better to repeal the existing law and have none than to retain it when it is violated every day all over the state and has become moribund. If it be right to contract for a greater rate of interest than eight per cent., then make it legal and enforceable. If it is not right, put a sufficient penalty upon it to effectually prevent the taking of more than that rate.

THE RAILROADS AND THE COMMISSION.

Complaints have been made of discrimination in freight rates against some localities. Neither the general assembly nor the commission can correct that if there be anything wrong. It belongs exclusively to the inter-state commerce commission and to congress.

Under federal legislation and the decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the state commission has no power to regulate freight or passenger rates when they come from, are passing through, or going into another state. In other words, the state commission has no power whatever over inter-state commerce. Where both termini of a road are within the state, and it forms a link in the line of transportation of inter-state commerce, the commission is powerless to regulate freight upon it as to such commerce. The powers of the commission are only those of police regulation, which is one of the reserved powers of the state. Under it the commission may direct the railroads as to the erection of depots for the comfort and accommodation of passengers, require the abatement of nuisances, the repair of dangerous bridges, the erection of fences along the line of road for the protection of stock from injury, and may enforce reasonable regulations as to freight and passenger rates when carried exclusively in the state.

We have a law which requires railroads within the state to provide separate cars for the accommodation of white and colored passengers. I do not question the wisdom of race separateness. It conduces to the peace and happiness of both races; but when first-class tickets are sold to a colored passenger he should be carried in a first-class coach. The negro's dollar buys as much in the markets of the country as the white man's, and when he is made to pay as much for a railroad ticket as a white man, he should be given a seat in as good a coach. If this would inconvenience any railroad company, let them sell second-class tickets at a lower price when a second-class car is furnished to the passenger. The railroad commission should be required to carry out this regulation.

The railroads are the great developers of our wealth and contributors to our civilization and greatness as a people, and should receive encouragement and be protected in all their rights. But the colored people constitute a large part of our population, with the same rights before the law as the white people, and hence the law should be impartially administered. When that is done, in all cases, it will remove all cause of irritation and produce greater harmony politically and otherwise between the races.

STATE TROOPS.

Our state troops have rendered service during the present year in the preservation of law and order, which of itself is the most potent and most unanswerable argument in favor of their great usefulness. The regiments, in the main, are composed of our best young men, and are fairly disciplined, so that they are capable of rendering the best services to the state. I therefore recommend the continuance of the necessary appropriations for their maintenance and discipline.

I suggest that you amend the law so as to authorize the governor to reorganize the regiments, by a transfer or exchange of companies from one regiment to another, whenever he thinks the same necessary for economy and convenience; to organize them into a brigade and to appoint a brigadier general to command it, should he deem it best, but to serve without pay except in active service.

THE GOVERNOR'S SALARY AND MANSION.

The Governor's salary was $4,000 per annum until the constitutional convention of 1875 reduced it to $3,000. The salaries of all the state officers were likewise reduced 25 per cent., but nearly all of them except that of the governor, have been restored or approximated. The present salary of the governor is below that of the justices of the supreme court, and is but equal to that of the three railroad commissioners; a circuit solicitor's salary and per centages combined are quite as great. It is entirely inadequate, especially as the governor has to find a home for himself. A man who has no income but the salary cannot, on that, support his family decently in the city of Montgomery if he has to furnish himself a house. The salary of the governors of the forty-four states of the Union would average about $4,500. In more than two-thirds of the states the governor is furnished by the state, an executive mansion in addition to his salary, in most cases supplied with lights, fuel and servants, or with sufficient commutation money to obtain them.

There is not a state in the Union of equal wealth with ours that does not furnish the governor with a mansion, or with a sufficient sum to rent one. I most earnestly recommend that you make an appropriation and provide for a suitable mansion, not for me, but for my successor. The dignity of the office and the pride of the people of our state demand it. Our sister states all around us have made such provision for the decent official residence of their chief executive, and Alabama should not be surpassed by them.

PROTEST.

Mr. Haarn presented the following protest, which was ordered spread on the journal:

The undersigned, members of the house of representatives of the general assembly of Alabama, respectfully protest against the action of a majority of this body in defeating the amendment of the representative of Choctaw county to include that county in house bill No. 322, which provided for making the office of superintendent of education elective, instead of appointive, for the following reasons:

1st. Because it is a denial of the right of local self-government to the people of Choctaw county.

2nd. Because it involves a denial of a right of a majority of the people of a county to control their own affairs.

3d. Because it establishes a state oligarchy in control of the affairs of the people of the respective counties, which is in effect and practice the destruction of their liberty in a vital and essential feature of that freedom which is vouchsafed by our republican form of government.

4th. Because the way it was accomplished, to-wit, by a motion to table the amendment, cut off debate and deprive the representative of pleading for its passage, or making any effort for his people to have their wishes and demands heard or respected, which is in effect robbing them of their right of representation; and while they are liable to taxation, they are subject to the same grievance which incited the founders of this government to rebellion against England, because of taxation without representation.

Mr. Fuller submitted the following which was ordered spread on the journal.

A PROTEST.

The undersigned most earnestly protests against the proceedings of the house of representatives in this, that when the representative from Bibb county introduced a bill to abolish a county court of said county in accordance with the wishes and interest of his constituents, it was captiously laid on the table without giving him an opportunity to be heard on its merits. Such action shows clearly a total disregard for the right of local self government which is the basis structure of all republican governments. This right of local self government was totally ignored by the house in refusing the representative of Bibb an opportunity to faithfully discharge his duty to his people on the floor of the house.

2nd. In passing a bill conferring additional powers and jurisdiction upon the county court of Bibb county which court is an uncalled for expense to said county and should have been abolished as the circuit court has ample time to dispose of all the litigation of said county.

3rd. This act has been perpetrated under the false guise that the representative from Bibb county was trying to enact legislation for partisan purposes and in the interest of a few the victors having accomplished their vile ends gloat and laugh while the county mourns and hangs its head in shame.

4th. The rights of a sister county have been trampled in the dust and laughed to scorn by those who should be ever ready to hold her up. Feeling the sting of this outrage, I can but enter this my solemn protest and leave it on the journal of the house that after I am dead the people of my county and state when looking over its pages can see how this, the county of Bibb, has been outraged in attempting to maintain local self government in the year of our Lord 1894; but we look to a just and allwise God who will right all wrongs in His own good time.

NELSON FULLER.

The amendment was lost and the resolution was lost.

Mr. Meador submitted the following:

Mr. Speaker:

Your committee appointed to examine the offices and books of the state auditor and state treasurer, beg leave to report as follows:

That in the limited time they have had to do the work they have only counted the money in the treasury, which amount they ascertain to be $154,411.32, which is a few cents more than the books of the treasurer call for.

If it is the desire of the general assembly that a more thorough examination should be made it will require the assistance of able experts and more time than this session of the legislature to do the work.

Mr. Meador presented the following report:

Mr. Speaker:

Your special committee appointed under joint resolution, adopted December 12th, to inquire and report "what amount of money belonging to the state was expended for and in connection with the inaugural ceremonies of the present governor, by whom expended, and by what authority, together with their recommendation touching the same," have had the same under consideration and respectfully report:

That one hundred dollars of the public money, was necessarily expended for and in connection with the inauguration ceremonies of the present governor; that the same was expended by the joint committee of the two houses and that the money was obtained upon the warrant of the auditor drawn upon the treasurer pursuant to an order from Governor Jones, at the request of the joint committee to pay that amount out of the contingent fund to the chairman of the said committee. The contingent fund, as its very name implies, is a fund provided by law to meet expenditures for occasions not covered or supplied by the general law. There is no limit to the objects to which it may be applied, save that it must be used for public purposes and not applied to any purpose forbidden by law. In no other respects are the uses or objects for which this fund may be applied, limited or defined, and how, or to what extent, it shall be used within these limits, the law commits to the sound discretion of the governor. Any payment made out of the fund by his order, for any public purpose not forbidden by law, is a legal and valid payment.

In the congress of the United States and in the legislatures of the several states, it is the universal practice to pay necessary expenses of committees, incurred in discharge of duties imposed by the bodies of which they are members. Any other rule would be unjust and prove detrimental to the public service. Expenses incurred by a joint committee in the inauguration of a governor are for public purposes. There is no law which forbids such payment. It was within the discretion of the governor to pay them out of the contingent fund, and his order to make the payment concludes all dispute as to the legality or validity of the payments. Its wisdom or propriety only remains open for inquiry and approval or disapproval.

The two houses undertook to prescribe the inauguration ceremonies and adopted a formal order of exercises to be observed. They charged their joint committee with the duty of making the proper arrangements, and of seeing that they were carried out. It had been the custom to pay such expenses by special appropriation or out of the contingent fund.

Under such circumstances, neither the Governor nor the joint committee would have been justified in imputing to the general assembly a purpose to have the incoming Governor inaugurated in a different manner than usual, or harboring a design to impose the performance of public duties upon the joint committee, the proper performance of which would entail expense, coupled at the same time, with an intent not to reimburse them. Proper regard for the general assembly would prevent either the outgoing governor or the joint committee from accepting or acting upon such a view. There was nothing contradictory of this in the fact that the house declined to concur in a simple joint resolution passed by the senate making an appropriation of $100 for such expenses. It might well have been that the action of the house was due to the belief that under the constitution such an appropriation must be made by formal act, and could not lawfully be made by joint resolution; or that there was no necessity for a special appropriation, since it ought to be paid out of the governor's contingent fund. If non-concurrence in the senate resolution was due to either cause, it was not significant of any desire or purpose of the house to defeat a regular appropriation by formal act, much less evidence of any desire to prevent the payment of such expenses out of the contingent fund.

Payment of inauguration expenses is nothing new in Alabama. Your committee has not had the time, nor was it deemed material to search the archives for all the precedents. It suffices to state, that the expenses of Governor Shorter's inauguration were included in the general appropriation bill, and those of Governors Patton and Watts paid by special acts, while those of Governor O'Neal were paid by his predecessor out of the contingent fund. From the best information your committee can obtain, it has been the custom, dating many for years before the war, to pay such expenses; the retiring governor generally paying out of the contingent fund the expenses of inaugurating his successor, though in some instances, as in the case of Governor Shorter, expenses were included in the general appropriation act, and some times in acts for the relief of the marshal or other person charged with the inaugural arrangements. Your committee can learn of but one instance in the history of the state where there was a failure to make an appropriation for such expenses when asked for. That was in 1890, when a bill for that purpose passed one house and failed to be taken up in the other, and in consequence the legislature enjoys the unenviable attitude of having used a man's hacks for its committees and refusing to pay him therefor. Your committee is of the opinion that both the governor and the joint committee, in view of the action of the two houses in prescribing the ceremonies and appointing a joint committee to represent them, and the long established precedent in relation to the payment of such expenses, were justified in presuming that there was no objection to the payment of such expenses out of the contingent fund. Apart from this, existing law made the governor, who is the head of one of the departments of government, the judge whether it was proper to pay these expenses out of the contingent fund. The senate favored their payment on a simple joint resolution. Even if the non-concurrence of the house can be treated as a declaration that these expenses should not be paid at all (and we have seen that it cannot be so treated) we have the case of the two bodies constituting the legislative department divided as to the propriety of the payment of these expenses, while the executive department, which is of equal dignity with the legislative, approving their payment. Dismissing other considerations, your committee in view of the division of sentiment between the two bodies of the general assembly, if non-concurrence in the senate resolution can be treated as a difference as to the payment of these expenses under any circumstances, would find it difficult to give reasons for disapproving the action of the governor or the joint committee in the premises as the payment and the acts of the committee were strictly in pursuance of law and in furtherance of the duties imposed upon them.

In view of the facts and the consideration mentioned, your committee is of the opinion that the payment by the governor out of the contingent fund, at the request of the joint committee, of the expenses incurred in discharge of the duties imposed upon them by the two houses in connection with the inaugural ceremonies of the present governor, was not only strictly legal, but eminently proper, and does not involve any want of deference to either branch of the general assembly.

Holding these views your committee finds no useful field for any recommendation, and asks to be discharged.

Mr. Deans presented the following minority report:

MINORITY REPORT.

The caption of the majority report is a misstatement on its face, because the report was typewritten before the committee met for the purpose of investigation.

There are many statements contained therein not warranted by the evidence before the committee and there are some facts which were brought out by the committee which the report does not show.

The report was railroaded through the committee without proper consideration. The meeting of the committee was held at the Exchange hotel, where it was impossible to have access to documentary evidence. I therefore dissent from the majority report.

The question being the adoption of the minority report as an amendment, it was lost—yeas 26, nays 55.

s. 119. To amend sections 2, 4, 5, 10 and 11 of an act approved February 28, 1889, and entitled an act to provide for the public printing of the state.

SIGNING OF BILLS.

The speaker of the house in the presence of the house, and immediately after its title had been publicly read by the clerk, signed the bill, the title to which is set out in the foregoing senate message.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Mr. Speaker:

Your special committee appointed to "enquire what rights, if any, are reserved to the state in the supreme court reports that have been or may be published under the existing contract, the cost per volume, the number of volumes delivered to the state, and the number sold by the publishers, and any all other facts relating to the publication of such reports, and whether said contract has been violated in letter or spirit in any particular," have enquired into these matters and considered the same and respectfully report:

The state is the owner or proprietor of all reports of decisions made by the supreme court, and has been for many years, and the present contractors to publish said reports knew this at the time they made their bid and contract. The maximum cost or price fixed by law for printing and binding an edition of seven hundred copies of every volume of said reports is $2.05 per copy. The Brown Printing Company contracted with the state to print and bind seven hundred copies of every volume at 60% off from this maximum, in other words, 82 cents per copy or $374.00 for said edition.

Under this contract they admit that they delivered to the state of the 95th Ala., 700 copies, have on hand nine copies and have sold ten copies; of the 96th Ala. they delivered to the state 581, distributed to judges and others entitled thereto by law 131 copies; on hand 21 copies; sold 22 copies.

Of the 97th Ala they delivered to the state 581; distributed 131; have on hand, 47; sold 43; and of the 98th Ala they delivered to the state 581; distributed 131; have on hand 62 and sold 34.

It will be seen that in publishing these four volumes of the reports, they have sold 119 copies thereby depriving the state of the opportunity of selling that number of books, and receiving therefor $297.50, and they have on hand ready to sell 139 copies of the four volumes, and thereby injuring the state, which will have on hand for sale, books which the state has paid this company for making, and which this company by this illegal conduct renders comparatively worthless.

The contractors should be required to pay over all money derived from the sale of these reports and be stopped from selling any more.

From those competent to judge of such matters, we are informed that the 95th, 96th, 97th, and 98th volumes are all bound in a split leather called "skivers" whereas, the contract required them to be bound in law sheep. The contractors deny this but an examination of the leather on the 95th, 96th, 97th and 98th Ala. Reports and a comparison of it, with the leather on 99th Ala., convinces us that they bound those four volumes in a much inferior quality of leather to that which they were bound to do, thus "making" out of the state, contrary to law and right, about $476.00. Several matters of minor importance connected with this printing contract have come to the knowledge of your committee, which demonstrate the importance of amending the law governing the letting out of the state printing and binding, so as to better protect the state from wrong and imposition, and to pay for only the work done for the state.

Your committee have, therefore, prepared amendments which they recommend be engrafted on senate bill 119, now before the house, which we believe will avoid this trouble in the future and save the state thousands of dollars.

W. J. BOYKIN.
SAM'L WILL JOHN.

Resolved, That the speaker appoint a committee of

By Mr. Dale—

Whereas the Democratic party of the state of Alabama has for more than a quarter of a century stood for the rights of the people and has maintained the government in its integrity, since the people in their might under a democratic flag, wrested it from the hands of the "carpet bagger and spoiler, and whereas certain parties have seen proper in a sister state to make grave charges against the fair name of the state and the common honesty of its citizens, and whereas those charges are absolutely untrue, and are but the dying wails of a set of disappointed office seekers, and reiterated for political purposes by some whose greed for political office is so great as to lead them to dishonor the state of their birth;

Therefore be it resolved, That this house condemn such conduct, and deems the same unworthy of any citizen of this fair state.

By Mr. Brooks—

Resolved by the house of representatives, the senate concurring, that a joint session of the two houses be held on Friday, 25th inst., at 4 o'clock p. m., in the hall of the house of representatives, and that the committee of the Cotton States and International Exposition of Atlanta, Ga., be, and they are hereby invited to address said joint session in relation to the representation of this state at the coming exposition to be held at Atlanta.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

STATE OF ALABAMA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR,
MONTGOMERY, A. L., JAN. 23rd, 1895. }

Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

I wish to call your attention particularly to our schools and how they are maintained, the amount of money appropriated and how it is applied, with some suggestions of legislation in regard thereto.

The University was founded at Tuscaloosa by an endowment of public land when the state was admitted into the Union. The state was made the trustee of the University and as such sold the lands and covered the proceeds into the treasury.

After the close of the war when the University was much in need of money, in consequence of the burning of its buildings, in 1865, by the Union soldiers, the state advanced one hundred thousand dollars to aid in reconstructing the buildings, etc. After this it was ascertained that the state owed the institution on account of said trust lands over eight hundred thousand dollars. Much of it had disappeared in the old state bank, in confederate money and the exigencies of the war. Then reconstruction of the state government and extravagances of those in power destroyed the credit of the state, so that after the expulsion of the "carpet huggers," on a compromise, it was agreed that the state should owe the University three hundred thousand dollars, and on that should pay interest at the rate of eight per centum indefinitely, which makes the twenty-four thousand dollars appropriated by the legislature for each and every year and paid out of the state treasury to that institution.

During the 49th congress a bill was passed donating to the University forty-six thousand and eighty acres of mineral lands, within the state, as a compensation for the destruction of the buildings aforesaid. It still owns thirty-six thousand acres of the land, but receives no income there from. If the University retains these lands, as I trust it will, they will soon be worth a million of dollars, or more, and will make it one of the best endowed universities in the United States.

THE AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL COLLEGE. -

The Agricultural and Mechanical College, located at Auburn, was founded by a grant of two hundred and forty thousand acres of land from congress for that purpose in the year 1870, I believe. This land script was issued and placed in the hands of the State as trustee. The State sold the script and covered the proceeds into its treasury aggregating two hundred and fifty-three thousand, five hundred dollars and issued bonds therefor upon which it pays eight per cent. interest, and this constitutes the appropriation every year, by our general assembly, of twenty thousand two hundred and eighty dollars to the college. The bonds issued for this debt bore eight per cent. coupons, all of which have been paid and cancelled, but in the appropriation bill passed in the early part of your session you appropriated the same amount to that institution as heretofore. The bonds are long passed due, but the state has no money with which to pay them, and I suppose that the general assembly will continue to pay interest on them at the same rate. Of course the rate of interest is discretionary with the general assembly. It is a high one, but I submit as it runs on trust funds which the state has long since converted to its own use that the legal rate should be paid. Another consideration for liberality in the interest rate is that at these two great schools tuition is free to all the young men of the State. They are institutions of which all our people should justly be proud.

The A. and M. College also receives annually that portion of the Morrill fund, donated by congress from the sales of public lands, to the high school education of white pupils, about eleven thousand dollars.

Connected with said college is also the agricultural experiment station, which receives under the Hatch law, from proceeds of the sale of public lands, fifteen thousand dollars per annum. Thus the A. and M. College, and all connected therewith, receive forty-six thousand two hundred and eighty dollars annually for their support. The college also receives one-third of the income from the tag tax of fertilizers, which was for the last fiscal year seven thousand six hundred and eighty-six dollars.

THE COMMON SCHOOL SYSTEM.

In 1875 the convention which framed the present Constitution declared in that instrument :

ARTICLE XIX.

"SECTION 1. The General Assembly shall establish, organize and maintain a system of public schools throughout the State for the equal benefit of the children thereof, between the ages of seven and twenty-one years; but separate schools shall be provided for the children of citizens of African descent."

Then follows provisions for raising the means to support and sustain that system, to wit :

"SEC. 2. The principal of all funds arising from the sale or other disposition of lands or other property; which has been or may hereafter be granted or entrusted to this State; or given by the United States for educational purposes, shall be preserved inviolate and undiminished; and the income arising therefrom shall be faithfully applied to the specific objects of the original grants or appropriations."

SEC. 3. All lands or other property given by individuals, or appropriated by the State for educational purposes, and all estates of deceased persons, who die without leaving will or heir, shall be faithfully applied to the maintenance of the public schools."

SEC. 4. The General Assembly shall also provide for the levying and collection of an annual poll tax, not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents on each poll, which shall be applied to the support of the public schools in the counties in which it is levied and collected."

SEC. 5. The income arising from the sixteenth section trust fund, the surplus revenue fund, until it is called for by the United State government, and the funds enumerated in sections three and four of this article, with such other moneys, to be not less than one hundred thousand dollars per annum, as the general assembly shall provide by taxation or otherwise, shall be applied to the support and maintenance of the public school, and it shall be the duty of the general assembly to increase, from time to time, the public school fund, as the condition of the treasury and the resources of the State will admit."

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

From a report submitted to me by State Superintendent John O. Turner, I extract the following information as to the number and location of normal schools, white and colored, with the attendance of pupils at each during the last two years, with amount appropriated to each by the State, and contributions from every other source:

It will be seen from the foregoing that the general assembly has been appropriating in the aggregate fifteen thousand five hundred dollars per annum for the normal schools for white pupils, and fourteen thousand five hundred dollars per annum for normal schools for colored pupils, which is a little more for the latter in proportion to population than the amount appropriated for the white schools of this character. The Morrill fund is more equally divided on the population basis. This thirty thousand dollars per annum is appropriated out of the general school fund. It is therefore of interest to look to the sources from which this fund is derived.

The constitution says that "The income arising from the sixteenth section fund" shall go towards making up a school fund "for the equal benefit" of all the children of the state. How did it originate? The sixteenth section trust fund originated by the sale of sixteenth sections of the public lands which were donated or reserved by the State on its admission into the Union solely for the purpose of maintaining public schools. These lands were sold to such an extent and the proceeds received, covered into the State's treasury and used for general purposes so that the State owes on that account one million eight hundred and ninety-four thousand six hundred and seventy-nine dollars. On this sum it pays annually at the rate of six per cent. interest over one hundred and thirteen thousand six hundred and eighty dollars. There is another trust fund in this connection known as the "valueless sixteenth section fund" created in the same way from the proceeds of the sale of sixteenth sections usually regarded as practically worthless. From that source the State received in trust the sums of ninety-seven thousand and ninety-one dollars. On this the State pays six per cent. interest per annum aggregating five thousand eight hundred and twenty-five dollars. The constitution next directs that the income from "the surplus revenue fund, until it is called for by the United States government" shall likewise constitute a part of the general school fund. That originated in this way: In 1836 there was a surplus revenue in the United States treasury of twenty-five million dollars and the Congress finding that this could not, consistently with the constitution, be distributed among the States, because it was in no sense a debt due by the United States to them, passed an act to distribute it among the States on the per capita basis but as a deposit to be returned to the United States whenever called for. Alabama received as its share six hundred and sixty-nine thousand and eighty-six dollars which Alabama is obligated to return to the United States whenever called upon for it. The State pays four per cent. interest on this amount to the school fund, making twenty-six thousand seven hundred and sixty-three dollars, thus aggregating an interest upon these three items of about one hundred and forty-six thousand dollars per annum to the public school fund. The constitution then further directs that "the General Assembly shall provide by taxation or otherwise, * * * * * not less than one hundred thousand dollars per annum * * * * * for the support and maintenance of the public schools." It also provides for raising money from other sources not now very fruitful, but under this last clause the General Assembly appropriates three hundred and fifty thousand dollars per annum raised by general taxation, making in the aggregate near five thousand dollars per annum exclusive of the poll tax which the constitution directs shall be used for public purposes in the county where collected. If this poll tax be fully collected it would make the public school fund, annually appropriated and expended for public schools, about seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

I am of the opinion that if a specific rate of taxation—say one or one and a half mills on the dollar of taxable property was separated from other State taxes—it would perhaps be more willingly paid by the people, as then they could see just how much they were paying for educational purposes by direct taxation, and how much out of the general fund as interest upon the trust funds before enumerated. You have already appropriated the aggregate amounts above indicated for the use of the public schools during the present year and 1896.

Now a question of some complication presents itself in regard to the Normal schools. The several acts of the General Assembly establishing them provide for an appropriation annually out of the general school fund for their maintenance. The General Assembly passed an appropriation bill, approved December 13th, 1894, in pursuance of constitutional authority, and appropriating therein for the support of public schools the amounts above named. How can any prior law divert any portion of that appropriation from the public schools and apply it to the Normal schools. In order to do so it must be held that the Normal schools are public schools within the sense of the law and the meaning of the constitution. This is a question which has never been decided by our Supreme Court. That court said in the case of Elsberry vs. Seay in Vol. 83 Ala. Reports in construing Article XIII of the constitution that "The constitution intends, and the system must provide for, the location of schools in the various and different localities of the State. To this end, the sixteenth section fund was regarded a trust fund for local schools; and it was also provided that the annual poll tax shall be applied to the support of the schools in the counties where it is levied and collected. Equality of benefit, embracing all the children, in whatever part of the State, is the fundamental and controlling principle, which must be maintained, if the constitutional requirements are observed * * * * * The intention is, that education in the same branches shall be equally accessible to all the children of the State."

It is further said by the court that, "We do not doubt the power of the General Assembly to establish universities, or other institutions of learning, distinct from the public schools, and to make appropriations for this purpose, provided the constitutional majority is obtained; nor the power to repeal, directly or by implication, any act appropriating money for the use of the public schools, provided the school is not thereby reduced below the minimum sum fixed by the constitution. But the legislature is unauthorized, by express or implied repeal, to disturb or destroy the equality of the apportionment of the sum appropriated for public schools. * * * * * It cannot be accomplished by a direct appropriation of a part thereof."

The court further said in the same case: Normal schools are mentioned only in section 34 of article IV, which provides: "No appropriation shall be made to any charitable or educational institutions not under the absolute control of the state, other than normal schools established by law for the professional training of teachers for public schools, except by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house." This section merely exempts such schools, whether in existence at the time of the adoption of the constitution, or established thereafter, from the requirement that a two-thirds majority shall be requisite to make appropriations for their support. It does not serve to interpret article XIII of the constitution. Normal schools may or may not be regarded a part of the system of public schools, and as adjuncts thereto, according to the provisions of the creating acts. "As to the constitutionality of these acts, or either of them, we neither express or intimate an opinion. They are not before us. It will suffice to decide the question when the necessity arises and it shall become our duty."

It is no argument to say that a normal school is open to all the children of the state of the educational age and is therefore a public school. It may be said with the same propriety that because the University and the Auburn college are open to all the young men of the state that they are therefore public schools. They are inaccessible to all, because of location at only two places and our public school system is founded on the idea of extending educational facilities to the children of every township of the state, and the constitution declares that it was intended to give them equal benefit from the public school fund. Can that be said of the normal schools? There is no doubt, as the supreme court says, of the power of the legislature to establish normal schools for the training of teachers and to appropriate money for their support, but it is a matter of grave doubt whether any more of the public school fund than the due proportion for each of the pupils of school age and attending such schools can be appropriated therefor or applied thereto.

The state in its present financial condition is unable to increase the public school fund. In fact, the state is borrowing money, and paying six per cent. interest thereon, to enable it to keep up the public school fund to as high a point as it was before the deficit in the revenue occurred. Under these circumstances, it seems to me unreasonable, if the constitutionality be conceded, to take any larger amount of the public school fund and apply it to the normal schools than that which they are now receiving. The thirty thousand dollars which they now receive out of the public school fund should not be increased. If it is done, it is diminution just to that extent of the money intended to be applied with perfect equality to the education of all the children of the state. Normal schools are a necessity, but like all other good institutions, they may be multiplied and fostered to too great an extent.

There are a greater number of teachers now asking for employment than there are schools to be taught by them. Tuition is free at the University and at Auburn and many of the young men educated at those two institutions offer their services as teachers in the public schools. In my opinion there are a greater number of normal schools in the state now than there is an absolute necessity for. I admit that there is a great inequality in the amount given to the two largest normal schools. The one at Florence receives $7,500 per annum and, though a very excellent school, has a less number of graduates per annum than the school at Troy. One is well located in Northwest Alabama, and the other is equally well located in Southeast Alabama. The school at Troy is an excellent institution, and notwithstanding it has a greater number of pupils attending it than the one at Florence, Troy receives but three thousand dollars per annum of this public school fund. They should approximate equality in the amount of money received.

It has been the policy of the General Assembly for the last twenty years or more to aid and encourage schools for the education of teachers. The schools at Florence and Troy are the largest of their kind in the state, and the latter having somewhat the advantage of the former in the numbers attending it, should be placed more nearly on equality with it in respect to the benefit conferred by legislation. The respective amounts appropriated to these two schools are greatly disproportionate, and as the amount of public school funds now given for the maintenance of normal schools should not be increased, it seems equitable to reduce the amount given to Florence and increase the appropriation for Troy to at least the extent of the reduction.

But in any event inasmuch as the General Assembly passed an appropriation bill at the present session making provision for the public schools, without any mention of the normal schools as sharing therein, I advise that a bill be now passed declaring what part of the public school fund shall be paid for the maintenance of all the said normal schools, white and colored. With the facts before you, and the amounts given by special acts to each of such schools, I have no doubt but that you will make a fair, equitable and reasonable appropriation for each. It is not for me but for you to determine what each school shall have. Laying the facts before you ends my duty in the premises.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

I have received many complaints from county superintendents, and parties who take a deep interest in the success of our common school system, of the great variety of books required by different teachers and thus involving the parents of the children attending the schools in unnecessary expense for school books. I recommend that a law be passed providing the best means and proper instrumentalities for selecting and adopting a uniform system or series of text-books to be used in all the public schools of the state, or the right may be given to each county. In framing such a law you should be careful to prevent monopoly and extortion on the part of the book-sellers, but I have no doubt of the practicability, utility and economy of such a system. There is nothing which should awaken greater interest in the people and call for more careful consideration by our legislators than that of fostering and encouraging public school education.

IMPROVE THE METHODS OF TEACHING.

There is a marked difference in the old and the new style of teaching. A medium between them would perhaps be the best.

One half of the first session of our higher schools is largely expended in preparations for a display at commencement. It would be more fruitful of good results if pupils, on such occasions, were required to read compositions, or deliver speeches, if at all, which are in fact original, rather than to read or speak those composed by older heads. Why should all the boys and young men be trained orators? Would not the time of a large majority of them be better spent on mathematics, geography, grammar, philosophy, chemistry and other branches which are more useful to the man of business than to a display of oratorical powers? There is much need of reform in the scholastic methods now in vogue. Let the children be educated to business and something useful, rather than for display.

A greater number of industrial schools should be established. Our agricultural schools are more famous for the number of professionals they graduate than of farmers, mechanics and business men. A greater number of industrial schools are needed in which the young of both sexes may be taught how to work in the most approved and skillful manner, as well as to be familiar with books, painting and music.

Too many are now being educated for a professional career or merely to be shining lights in society. No one can be in a more despicable condition than the young man or young woman when thus educated and set adrift in the world without money to sustain them. To meet any ill turn of fortune, she should be well trained for domestic work, or that of the school or counting room, and the young man should be made familiar with the work of the shop or the farm as well as his more classical training.

THE GIRL'S SCHOOL.

The Industrial School for girls now about to be organized is a step in the right direction, but the law should be amended.

That part of it which provides for free board as well as tuition of one pupil from each congressional district and the modes of selection should be stricken out, and in the administration of the school every facility possible should be employed to make the board and expenses of attending the school as little as possible; but an ambitious rivalry to excel, among the girls, should be encouraged. A larger appropriation, or some provision for an annual income, to aid in the support of this school is necessary. It is more in need than some of our Normal schools.

THE CONSTITUTION.

An accurate knowledge and proper appreciation of our complex American systems of government can only be obtained through a study of the Constitutions, State and Federal.

Many of the adults—thousands of our voters are grossly ignorant of our fundamental law. I advise that the Constitutions be made a branch of study in our public schools.

These Constitutions should be a part of a school history of our State, arranged with questions and answers.

The children could, in this way, also be made familiar with the history of our State. Nothing will inspire in them a greater love of home and country. Do not fear that such learning will increase the number of politicians of the kind we now have. It will strike terror into the ordinary demagogues, with whom the whole of politics is simply office-getting, without regard to qualification or fitness. It will give an accurate idea of the true objects and grand purposes of our Democratic systems of government. The girls, as well as the boys, should be taught our constitutional systems of government, for while they do not and ought not to vote they exercise a wonderful influence over those who do, and they are equally interested in good government and equally capable of understanding it.

ARTICLE XI OF THE CONSTITUTION.

"§ 3. After the ratification of this Constitution, no debt shall be created against or incurred by this State, or its authority, except to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, and then only by a concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house of the general assembly, and the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals; and any act creating or incurring any new debt against the State, except as herein provided for, shall be absolutely void; Provided, The Governor may be authorized to negotiate temporary loans, never to exceed one hundred thousand dollars, to meet deficiencies in the treasury; and until the same is paid, no new loan shall be negotiated; Provided further, That this section shall not be so constructed as to prevent the issuance of bonds in adjustment of existing State indebtedness."

The foregoing statement shows that the bonded debt of the state aggregates nine million, two hundred and ninety-nine thousand and four hundred dollars, upon which the state pays in interest three hundred and seventy-seven thousand, seven hundred and fifty-six dollars every year. On January 1st, 1896, the class A bonds will go up to 5 per cent., which will increase the annual interest payable on the debt sixty-eight thousand and forty-four dollars, thus making four hundred and forty-five thousand, eight hundred dollars, to be raised by taxes every year, and paid out for interest on this class of the state's indebtedness.

There are two hundred and forty-three thousand, six hundred dollars in the aggregate, of these different classes of bonds which may yet be issued in exchange for old ones which have not been presented for that purpose.

Twenty years is the greatest length of time allowed to bring suit on any kind of claims. The state has already extended to holders of the old bonds eighteen and a half years to exchange for the new. I recommend that a statute of limitations be passed limiting the time within which the exchange may be made to twenty years. The bonds not presented for exchange, within that time, it is fair to presume, have been lost, or are held by those who refuse to accept the terms of settlement given to other creditors. I desire the credit and honor of the state, at all times, to be maintained without the slightest deviation. The settlement of 1876 was made when the state's credit was broken down and completely paralyzed by reckless legislation and administration. This state was utterly unable to offer its creditors any better terms than were given. They generally recognized that fact and accepted its propositions, since which the credit of the state has been fully restored to solvency, and some of its bonds are worth a premium. All of them except the 4 per cents last issued, mature July 1st, 1906. The fours in 1920.

The general assembly at the session of 1892-3 passed an act authorizing the governor to refund the different classes of our bonds into a single class, to bear not exceeding 4 per cent., and to run not longer than fifty years. But said act made no appropriation, or other provision, for paying the expenses incident thereto, and hence my predecessor was unable to do anything in that direction. I think it probable if said act be amended and provision be made for paying the necessary expenses of printing, advertising and a reasonable commission for a state agent in New York, that the exchange may be made, and the state largely benefited thereby.

But the holder of a bond bearing 5 per cent. interest would not exchange it for one bearing one per cent. less, merely in consideration of its having a longer period to run before maturity. Some additional inducement would have to be offered. The state might save from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars a year by an exchange on this basis.

Your law should also provide that the bonds be subject to call for redemption after ten or twenty years, but that the first issued and exchanged, or sold for exchange, should be the last called, and the last exchanged, or sold therefor, should be first called. This would aid the exchange.

The value of a solvent bond in the markets of the world is measured first, by the length of time it has to run, secondly by the rate of interest it bears, and thirdly, by the kind of money in which it is payable. In the United States it makes no difference whether it is payable in gold, silver or paper, because they are all maintained on parity with each other. But in Europe our paper money will not circulate, nor will our silver, except at its bullion value.

We want to do the best we can for the state, and I am clearly of opinion that if you authorize the new bonds to be made payable in gold, that they can be sold in London at par, and probably at a small premium, if made to bear only $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. and probably at 3, which would save the tax payers of the state about one hundred and forty thousand dollars every year. Why not try it?

The gold is as easily obtained as paper or silver, and while the gold craze is on one side of us and the silver craze is on the other, why not take advantage of it for our people? It is my duty to state facts, and to recommend whatever measure I believe to be to the real benefit of the people. I therefore recommend this legislation, although some crank may call me a "gold bug" for it. I am a bi-metalist—I am in favor of both gold and silver, the money of the constitution and of final redemption. But our state has no jurisdiction over the question of coinage or fixing the standard of value. That belongs to congress. I take the risk of being misrepresented and recommend a measure that will, if adopted, lift a burden off the shoulders of our tax payers of at least one hundred and forty thousand dollars a year. A bill will be presented for your consideration.

A SINKING FUND LAW.

Whatever else may be done with the state debt, I recommend that a sinking fund law be enacted for its gradual extinction. A state, like an individual, should strive to get out of debt and, while it exists, to pay as low a rate of interest on it as possible. In proportion as the debt is extinguished the semi-annual payments of interest diminish, and the credit of the state strengthens.

Under the improved methods of assessment of taxes, which I hope to see adopted, I believe that the state will soon make up the existing deficit in the revenues and produce a surplus. If this should result, invest a small amount of that every year in the sinking fund and only good can come of it to our people.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr Speaker:

I have the honor to inform you that the following bills which originated in the house have been approved: Nos. 404, 383, 467, 183, 107, 98, 351, 506, 138, 580, 452, 490, 232.

Very respectfully,

HARVEY E. JONES,
Private Secretary.

To the House of Representatives:

The report from the judiciary committee on the special message of Governor Thomas G. Jones with reference to the claim of Mr. Stallworth for a reward is herewith returned. I respectfully submit that it is not in accord with his recommendation. The resolution of said committee adopted by the house simply recommends that four hundred dollars be paid to Mr. Stallworth in full satisfaction of his claim. The recommendation of Governor Jones was for "a reasonable compensation to Mr. Stallworth and of legislation accordingly." I submit that the general assembly should pass a bill making an appropriation for whatever sum is regarded as a just compensation to Mr. Stallworth. The appropriation of twenty-five hundred dollars for rewards which the governor may offer and pay for the apprehension of absconding felons is very limited, in fact, is too small for the purposes intended to be accomplished. Under a mere recommendation I do not feel authorized to pay the four hundred dollars out of that fund inasmuch as the services rendered were not in accordance with the terms of the reward offered. Legislation is required. I therefore recommend that a bill be passed appropriating whatever sum the general assembly thinks should be paid to Mr. Stallworth independent of the regular appropriation.

WM. C. OATES,
Governor.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

To the House of Representatives,

Gentlemen—In compliance with your resolution requesting me to furnish you with information "concerning the number, and compensation of solicitors of the several courts of the state who are paid by the state other than circuit solicitors," I submit herewith a report from the attorney-general which contains much valuable information.

There are now twelve circuit solicitors paid a salary out of the state treasury of twenty-four hundred dollars each per annum aggregating. $38,800

They are also allowed by law to earn each six hundred dollars more, which if earned, would aggregate. $ 7,200

The law allows a solicitor for each county to be compensated by fees earned to the extent of five hundred dollars each per annum. In some counties they perhaps do not make that sum. If made in all the counties that would aggregate. $33,000

There are nine city and county courts in which the solicitors are paid independently of the circuit solicitors out of fees earned in those counties aggregating over. $20,000

Thus it will be seen that the solicitors of all classes are allowed by law to earn in fees and salaries in the aggregate annually. $87,000

A good solicitor to prosecute crime is essential to its suppression but there seems to be a greater number under our present system than is necessary. From the return of solicitors fees collected and paid into the treasury, the state seems to be doing a losing business in this respect.

This results of course from the number of local courts and counties which give all the fees earned to their solicitors and those which have a larger income in fees than will pay their solicitors under their special acts cover the excess into the county treasuries, so that the state derives nothing therefrom. There seems to be a necessity for some reform in this respect.

The aggregate salaries of the twelve circuit judges is but $30,000. I am decidedly in favor of increasing the the number of circuits and the frequency of the terms of court to be hold therein, and of course a corresponding increase in the number of solicitors and diminution in the number of local courts and local solicitors in counties and cities in which there is not an absolute necessity for their retention.

These changes in our judiciary system I regard as absolutely necessary to its effectiveness and to carry out the guarantess of the constitution to the people.

WILLIAM C. OATES,
Governor.

A PROTEST.

Mr. Speaker:

The undersigned member of the general assembly of Alabama respectfully protest against the adoption of the majority report of the committee appointed by this body to investigate the facts, as to one hundred dollars of state money having been used to defray the expense of the inauguration of Governor Oates, for the following reasons, to-wit :

1st. Because the report is unsatisfactory in its details, and does not contain all the information desired.

2nd. Because the legislature refused to appropriate any amount, and specifically refused to pass a bill appropriating one hundred dollars out of the treasury for that purpose.

3d. Because there was not a dollar, according to the auditor's report, of the contingent fund, controlled by the governor at the date of the expenditure of one hundred dollars for that purpose, by the governor, out of that contingent fund; and such conduct is capable of mixing up the arithmetic and book-keeping of the state officers.

4th. Because this general assembly has already passed a deficiency bill to pay interest on temporary loans.

5th. Because the use of one hundred dollars under the circumstances was not only illegal, but contemptuous treatment of this general assembly.

6th. Because it is a bad precedent, and dangerous to good government for such acts to go unchallenged and unrebuked

7th. Because it was a violation of the spirit and intent of the following sections of the constitution, to-wit :

Article IV, section 32. The general appropriation bill shall embrace nothing but appropriations for the ordinary expenses of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the state, interest on the public debt, and for the public schools; all other appropriations shall be made by separate bills, each embracing but one subject.

Sec. 33. No money shall be paid out of the treasury except upon appropriations made by law, and on warrant drawn by the proper officer in pursuance thereof; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public moneys shall be published annually in such manner as may be by law directed.

A. J. HEARN.

The protest was ordered spread on the journal.

SIGNING BILLS.

The speaker of the house in the presence of the house immediately after their titles had been publicly read by the clerk, signed the bills whose titles are set out in the foregoing senate message.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
MONTGOMERY, February 15, 1895.

To the House of Representatives:

House bill 821 entitled "an act to provide for the calling and holding of meetings of stockholders of railroad corporations in certain cases and regulating the voting, the election of officers and the transaction of other business at such meetings" is a measure of vast importance. As to the policy of the bill I do not conceive it to be my duty to express an opinion. It is a question upon which the members of the general assembly honestly differ. I think that my duty confines me to a careful examination into the constitutionality of the measure. If it be constitutional it is my official duty to approve it. If its constitutionality be merely doubtful, it is likewise my duty to approve it. While it is general in its provisions it is admitted by its advocates and opponents who have submitted to me briefs on both sides of the question that its main purpose is to remedy a supposed wrong as to a particular case.

As to the contention of those opposed to the bill that its subject or purpose is not clearly expressed in its title, I have a doubt, but I am inclined to think this objection not well taken.

It is said by its advocates that it applies alone to cases where alien foreign corporations own a majority of the stock in railroad corporations chartered under the laws of Alabama and its purpose is to prescribe conditions upon which such foreign corporations or its stockholders shall exercise voting power, conduct elections and transact business in meetings of stockholders of the domestic corporations in Alabama.

It is further contended that "if the foreign corporation owns the stock of the domestic corporation it can only exercise the power of voting through agents of its own appointment. This is usually done through officers or directors who hold the power by the vote and will of a majority of the stockholders. The provisions of this bill merely transfers the agency or proxy to cast its vote from the directors to the stockholders themselves. In the first instance, the will of the majority so far as the foreign corporation is concerned, directs and controls the way in which the vote shall be cast; and where the stockholders exercise the agency and cast the vote themselves, the same result is produced—since a majority of the stockholders cast the vote in the same way.” It is further contended that “if it be that restrictions should not be put upon foreign corporations which do not apply alike to domestic ones, the answer is that this is merely a question of policy and not of right.” To this argument I can not give my assent. It is a well settled legal principle in the law of corporations that the right of voting is an individual property right entitled to judicial protection. In “Smith’s Leading Cases” it is said that if one man ‘has a right to vote * * * and another has excluded him from it, nobody can say that the defendant has done well; then he must have done ill, for he has deprived the plaintiff of his right.’”

“If the plaintiff has a right he must of necessity have the means to vindicate and maintain it and a remedy if he is injured in the exercise and enforcement of it, and, indeed, it is a vain thing to imagine a right without a remedy.”

The authorities generally set forth that the right of voting in a corporation is a right of substantial value—that it is property—and any change of the law by which that right will be impaired is not tolerated by our law and constitution. It is contended in favor of the bill that “the state has an absolute right to exclude the alien foreign corporation, or to impose such conditions as it pleases upon the holding of property or the exercise of its corporate function in its borders.” Justice Field of the supreme court is cited as holding, in a recent case, that “the only limitation upon this power of the state to exclude a foreign corporation from doing business within its limits or hiring officers for that purpose, or to exact conditions for allowing the corporation to do business or hire officers there, arises where the corporation is in the employ of the federal government, or where its business is strictly commerce, interstate or foreign. The control of such commerce being in the federal government, is not to be restricted by state authority." 125 U. S. Reports, pages 181 to 190. It is quite true that the federal government under the constitution, has the exclusive right to the regulation of commerce and no state has any power to interfere with or restrict it. While the law cited by Justice Field is quite correct as applicable to the case he was considering, it does not follow that there is no restriction or limitation upon the power of the state to exclude, or to deny to a foreign corporation the right to the protection of its property acquired in and under the laws of the state.

Under the common law an alien can acquire a vested right and complete ownership in and to personal property, and a right and title to real estate without the aid of a statute, but the real estate subject to be denounced and forfeited after office found.

In volume 2 Wharton's International Digest, section 20, it is declared that "there is no principle in the law of nations more firmly held than that which entitles the property of strangers within the jurisdiction of the country to the protection of the sovereign by all the efforts in its power." That is the settled policy of all nations.

The supreme court of the United States has declared that the property of corporations chartered by foreign powers and consisting of alien members is entitled to the same protection as the property of an individual alien. See the case of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel vs. Newhaven, 8 Whiting, 464.

But there is no use of further citations of the common law, or the law of nations upon this subject. The rights of aliens in Alabama are clearly defined, recognized and protected by statute. An act of the general assembly, approved February 26th, 1875, which is now incorporated in the code as section 1914, reads as follows: "An alien resident or non-resident may take and hold property, real and personal in this state, either by purchase, descent or devise as a native citizen."

Shares of stock in a corporation created by the laws of Alabama are beyond question personal property. The Code, section 1669, expressly so declares. An alien may therefore take and hold such shares of stock and may dispose of them by sale or otherwise as a native citizen. This statute eliminates from this controversy all question as to the rights of aliens under our law and any disputation that stock in railroads is personal property. The supreme court of the United States has declared these propositions well settled law :

First. That the law in existence at the time and the place of the making of a contract and where it is to be performed enter into and is one of its terms and must govern its validity, construction and the remedy for its enforcement. These are inseparable parts of an obligation, which is guaranteed by the constitution.

Second. The obligation of a contract is the law which binds the parties to perform their agreement.

Third. Any impairment of the obligation—the degree of impairment is immaterial—is within the prohibition of the constitution. The state may change the remedy for the enforcement of the contract, provided that no substantial rights secured by the contract is impaired; but whenever such a result would be produced by legislation, though intended as remedial merely, to that extent the act is void.

The state can no more, under the plea of remedial legislation, impair the efficacy of a contract than in any other way. The constitution shields the contract in all its terms from an assault from any direction; hence the expression, “the sacredness of contracts.”

Charters of incorporations, or a grant of corporate existence from the state, fixes the measure of these propositions, or contracts :

First. Between the state and the corporation, as such.

Second. Between the state and the corporators.

Third. Between the corporators, as among themselves.

Our statute declares that annual meetings of stockholders are required to be held, and a majority of stock shall be represented to constitute a quorum, and each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock held by him. The supreme court of Massachusetts defines a corporation as follows: “The corporation itself is regarded as a distinct person and its property is legally vested in itself and not in its stockholders. As to this they cannot, even by joining together unanimously convey a title, or maintain an action at law for its possession or for damages done to it. The artificial person.

called a corporation must manage its affairs in its own way as exclusively as a natural person manages his property and business. The officers chosen by a vote of the stockholders are not their agents but the agents of the corporation and they are accountable to it alone." Peabody vs. Flint, 6 Allen, page 55. A stockholder as such has no distinct ownership of the corporate property and all the rights he can assert are derivative and must be asserted by or through the corporation, except as to the right to draw dividends declared, to vote stock in the management of the corporation and in the event of its dissolution to receive his pro rata share of the assets. In many respects they stand to it as the heir at law does during the life of the persons from whom the heir inherits.

Section 1869 of the Code makes shares or an interest in the stock of private corporations personal property transferable on the books of the corporation in such a manner as is required by its by-laws and by the rules and regulations of the corporation. When a person becomes a stockholder of a corporation under the general statutes of Alabama, either by subscription to stock, or by the purchase of shares therein, he becomes under the law, entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned or held by him. This law being in force at the time of his purchase enters into the contract and becomes a part of the obligation of the contract and measure of his rights therein. Any change and impairment of these rights by statute is forbidden by the Constitutions, both State and United States. The right to use, enjoy and control things which are capable of dominion constitutes property. The right of the stockholder to vote his stock according to the contract is one of the highest and most valuable rights pertaining to the ownership of stock in any corporation. The stock is valuable, as a measure of dividends when declared, and the interest in the assets of the corporation when dissolved. The welfare, value and profits of the corporation which owns another corporation, or stock therein, may depend largely upon the management of the latter. The value of this stock may be destroyed by a change in the management of the corporation. The right of every stockholder to vote the stock held by him as to who shall conduct the business of the corporation is a most vital property right. Can it be said that such a right remains in force if the Legislature can say that this right of voting secured by the original charter, or contract, shall be denied or impaired while others who stand to it in the relation of heir at law, while the proprietor corporation is yet in being, shall vote its stock and exercise its will and manage its property? The question answers itself in the negative.

In 1876 the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad, a corporation under the laws of Alabama, which had received an endorsement of its bonds by the state to the extent of sixteen thousand dollars per mile of road, and which were owned by people in England, was in an insolvent condition and so was the State. A debt settlement was made by which the State, to procure its release from the obligations, issued and placed in the hands of the bondholders a million of dollars of our class "C" bonds. The road was sold by a decree of the United States court and the property purchased by an English syndicate or company. These foreign holders of our bonds, and owners of this property, obtained a charter in 1877, under the general statutes of Alabama and changed the name to the Alabama Great Southern Railroad. These aliens having obtained their charter, under our laws, are entitled to the protection of their rights and property the same as native citizens. It is not therefore competent for the General Assembly to change in any respect whatever, the rights of this alien corporation or the shareholders therein, and confer upon citizens of this country, greater rights than they acquired under their contract of incorporation. Smith vs. South and North Railroad Company, 75 Alabama 450.

What the legislature can not do directly it can not do indirectly. If the bill under consideration becomes a law, it would be a declaration that corporations of this state, or a sister state, which own stock in Alabama corporations may vote their shares therein, while the alien corporation, though organized under the laws of Alabama, would have a different rule prescribed limiting it or denying its stockholders the rights it obtained under its charter, and thus discriminating in favor of a citizen against the rights of property of foreigners, which is in my opinion in violation of our constitution.

I am therefore constrained to return the bill to your house, in which it originated without my approval.

W. M. C. OATES,
Governor.

After the reading of the above message, the house proceeded to reconsider the bill

H. 821. To provide for the calling and holding of meetings of stockholders of railroad corporations in certain cases and regulating the voting, the election of officers, and the transaction of other business at such meetings.

The question being, shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the governor's veto,

Mr. Davis moved to postpone the further consideration of the question till Monday next.

Mr. O'Brien moved to table Mr. Davis' motion.

PROTESTS BY MR. JOHN.

Mr. Speaker:

Under the provisions of the act to regulate the management of state and county convicts, passed at the present session of the general assembly of Alabama, the state is again committed to the lease system with all its inherent evils.

Against this action I do solemnly protest :

For the lease system is founded on the idea of revenue only—revenue of costs to the officers of court which has been the efficient cause of multiplying convicts threefold in ten years, while the population only increased twenty two per cent ; revenue to the hirer, whose only thought by day and by night, is : “How much money can I coin out of the sweat and life-blood of the convicts, at the least cost to me?”

For the lease system means to perpetuate the working of convicts in mines, wherein they cannot be prevented from committing sodomy at will, and whereby they are nearly all made more debased brutes than ever, to be turned loose upon a small part of the people, in a concentrated mass, thus threatening the overthrow of Christian civilization.

For that act was designed to continue in power the present inefficient administration of the convict system, by which tens of thousands of dollars have been diverted from the state into the coffers of the lessee.

For that every democrat who voted for that act, violated his party's most solemn pledge, twice made, to reform the convict system and take them out of the mines.

For that the whole system is a shame to any Christian state, and cannot be too soon blotted out forever.

Respectfully submitted, to be spread on the journal.

SAM WILL JOHN.

Mr. Speaker:

The most important duty that this general assembly had to perform, was to provide the ways and means to carry on the state government, that it might administer justice, execute the laws and protect the liberties of the people.

Immediately upon the meeting of the general assembly, we were officially informed by the Governor of the great financial embarrassment of the State, and of the pressing necessity for speedy action and certain relief, in a message that is remarkable for its simple, plain statements, yet so forcible that he who runs may read.

This condition was and is, simply that the state is well nigh bankrupt. This did not come from wasteful expenditures nor from extravagant appropriations, nor from dishonest officials, but it was all the direct, immediate result of a great and rapid contraction of the currency, and of turning over the treasury, the financial policy and laws of the federal government to the unbri-dled lust for unlawful gain of the bankers, whereby, in a few months, business was paralyzed, enterprise killed and labor unrewarded, and many of our people reduced to beggary and want and the revenue of the state below the sum justly required for its support.

Recognizing the necessity for prompt, intelligent action, and that large amounts of the most valuable properties in the state, had altogether escaped taxation or been grossly undervalued, the finance committee of the senate early in the session framed extended amendments to the laws regulating the assessment of taxes. or that part of the laws on the general subject of taxation, popularly called the "machinery" of the revenue law. This was submitted to a joint committee of the general assembly, during recess, which assigned to me the duty of preparing amendments of the statutes defining the subjects of taxation. These were prepared in the light of the most recent decisions of the supreme courts, state and federal, and approved by the joint committee and incorporated in a general bill, which was introduced in this house by the representative from Calhoun county (Mr. Kelly), and referred to the committee on ways and means. Had it been enacted it would have relieved the state in a year. This measure met unrelenting opposition and wilful misrepresentation before the committee, and in a few days, or rather nights, a powerful lobby of bankers and money lenders assembled from all quarters, and by fair means and foul opposed the reporting of the bill to this house, and held it in committee till only eight or nine legislative days remained for its consideration in the two houses.

Upon its being reported to the house, a bitter, factional fight was made against it; fillibustering and motions for delay were freely and constantly resorted to, till late in the day of the 47th legislative day when, for the fifth time, a determined effort was made to defeat the bill, which failed, whereupon the friends of the measure demanded the previous question, and on the passage of the bill, every opponent of the Democratic party in the house, with the single exception of the representative from Chilton county, and the champions of the moneyed interests and tax-skulkers, defeated the bill.

In this dire extremity the speaker, by almost superhuman efforts and personal appeals, obtained a reconsideration of the vote and secured a reference of the bill to a special committee of three friends of the bill and three opponents—this was all that could be done.

This committee in order to secure any increase whatever in the revenue for the state, was forced to strike out the provisions of the bill which, if enacted, would have required corporate capital, for the first time, to bear some part of the public burden, and would also have made the money lenders who enjoy the protection of the government and courts, bear some small part of the cost of maintaining the government.

They also were forced to allow a tax-payer to deduct the amount of his indebtedness from the amount of solvent credits owned by him, and return only the excess for taxation for the year 1895—a special privilege, favor, shown to no other class, thus opening wide the door for frauds and perjuries and the escape of millions of property from taxation.

They were forced to submit to have the section of the bill repealing §1128 of the code, stricken out. This section has for many years been a blot on our statute book. It has enabled the persons operating railroads in this state, to claim that they paid the salaries and expenses of the railroad commission, and therefore the legislature should not reduce said salaries, and it also gave them a cover to protect them from paying an excise tax, which nearly every state levies. It has for years, ever since Commissioners Bragg, Crook and Ball made such plain recommendations for legislation, looking to the protection of the people from the unjust discriminations and hard extortions, by persons operating railroads, been held as a rod of terror over the legislature and commissioners, to effectually exempt the railroads from just, fair control by the state.

They were also forced to allow shareholders in banks, to deduct from the just value of their shares, the assessed value of the real property of the bank, thus allowing a class of persons to deduct from the value of their property the value of another's property—an undue advantage, wholly inexcusable and not allowed any other class of our people; and of which our supreme court has said:

“To hold that a shareholder in a national bank is entitled to have his assessment reduced, because some part of the capital stock is invested in property, and taxed as such, would be to accord to him a double discount, while no other tax-payer is favored so much.”

In addition, they have required that the shares be assessed to the bank, which does not and cannot own them, for the sole purpose of enabling the bank to fight off taxation, in a manner that an honest man cannot do.

For these reasons, and many others that can easily be given, I do most earnestly and solemnly protest against such unjust, unconstitutional action, and this utter disregard of the rights of the people, whereby the single tax system, in its most odious and unjust form, is fastened upon individuals owning small amounts of real property.

SAM'L WILL JOHN.

Mr. Davis moved to strike from the journal the protest of Mr. John in reference to the revenue bill.

Mr. Davis' motion was lost.

Yes 22, nays 45.

Banks, Beeson, Bellinger, Boykin, Brown of Concuah, Brown of Russell, Burks, Cameron, Cole, Deans, Ellis, Ewing, Fleming, Forman, Franklin, Fulton, Gewin, Graves, Harris, Hill, Jackson, Jinks, Lipscomb, Manning, Maples, Mastin, Mahan, Mills, McCorvey, O'Brien, Perry, Prowell, Reaves, Roach, Rogers, Rowton, Savage, Smith of Greene, Smith of Mobile, Taylor, Ward, Wheelless, Williams of Bullock, Williams of Henry—45.

Mr. Kelly offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That this house receive the protest of the gentleman from Jefferson; in obedience to the constitution, but it denies the correctness or the justice of the same.

Mr. Hill offered the following as a substitute :

Whereas, It has been urged by a prior resolution, introduced by the gentleman from Jefferson, that members of this house have been induced by unworthy motives to cast their vote against a measure, and whereas such is not the fact,

Therefore be it resolved, That this house does hereby repel and repudiate the statements in said resolution contained,

And Mr. Hill's substitute was adopted.

Mr. O'Brien offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Whereas, it is a time honored custom at the close of the session of the general assembly for the members thereof to give expression of their feelings toward the officers with whom they have been officially connected; and, whereas, such expressions have usually been directed by the spirit of courtesy in the utterances of approval and thanks; and,

Whereas, it is the undivided opinion of this house that we have been unprecedentedly felicitated in the selection of our officers at this session, therefore be it

Resolved, by the house of representatives, That we do tender our most sincere thanks to the Hon. Thomas H. Clark, speaker of this house, for the able and considerate manner characterizing his discharge of the duties of that responsible and difficult position in a manner that has promoted throughout the success of business, the maintenance of order and the pleasurable feeling of its members; that each and every member of this house will return to their homes fully and durably photographed in memory with his exalted intellectual and moral worth, and with a glow of pride that Alabama is blessed with one who, in being honored, but honors his state. Be it further

Resolved, That the clerk, Mr. Massey Wilson, needs no expression from us to assure him that he has our heartfelt thanks for his unvarying kindness, fidelity and courtesy in the official discharge of the duties constantly devolving upon him, and that in the future journey of life we will have lived long and passed into the deeper shades of the sunset side of the hill thereof, 'ere we fail to remember, if ever, our good and amiable clerk, his genial face beaming with integrity and unaffected sincerity. Be it further

Resolved, That the thanks of this house are also due and are hereby tendered to Mr. John Proctor, our able assistant clerk, Mr. Val Taylor, our efficient and courteous engrossing clerk, and other officers and servants thereof.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and copies thereof be furnished the papers of the city.
